Eight Western Bears.
Don't Be a U. S. A. Bear.
All Set, Very Soon.
The Skuptshina, and Here.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

EIGHT young California oarsmen, the "Golden Bear Eight," from the Golden Gate, beat the best crew that Columbia ever turned out and smashed a 27-year record.

A climate in which you grow for 12 months instead of fighting colds and standing still for six months out of 12, has advantages. Helen Wills proves it.

BUSINESS news more cheerful yesterday. The oil stock buyer rejoiced to read that crude oil production had fallen off 6,350 barrels a day, in the past week, and oil stored east of the Rocky Mountains shows a decrease of 636,000 barrels for May.

LOADING of revenue producing freight cars, a good business indication, increased 61,746 for the week ended June 9.

Some daring little lambs have been trimmed to look like a French poodle, and others to look more like a hairless Mexican dog.

But beware how you sell this country short, for the long run. And, although it may be a little late, don't gamble.

SOON, the two candidates will be named, Hoover and Smith, the two platforms printed, and the show will start. Houston reports lack of prohibition energy. Nobody there, it seems, to give prohibition a kind hand.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, says he will stop Governor Smith. But prohibition does not interest him. There will be plenty of prohibition talk before next November, however.

IN the Belgrade Skuptshina, their name for Congress, a radical deputy shot and killed Paul Rabitch, nephew of the peasant leader. Savage, backward sort of place, we say.

IN New York's Central Park yesterday, a ruffian, type of modern crime, cruelly slashed the face of a young woman, walking with friends. In Ohio, George Remus, who shot his wife, in cold blood, as she begged for mercy, was set free. A jury said he was insane—that saved his neck. The high court says he is not insane. That gives him freedom, and more opportunity. In Houston, as the Democrats gather, a Negro is taken from a hospital bed, by men not masked and hanged.

Let us not criticize others.

MAJ. MADDALENA, one of Italy's magnificent fliers, located Nobile, adrift on an ice floe, in the Arctic, and dropped a supply of food. No landing was possible, and the ice was too rough to take off.

Would it be possible to drop a miniature gas bag, weighted down, that could lift one or more of the stranded men perpendicularly, to within reach of a slowly moving plane? What plan would you suggest?

AMELIA EARHART has received her first proposal of marriage since her ocean flight. She will get more. She tells London to praise Pilot Stultz, who ran the machine and really made the trip, while she was "excess baggage." But no one pays attention to that. Romance is the thing, and Miss Earhart supplies it.

IN New York's brutal dancing contest—the dance to go until all but one couple drop—the female dancers, nervously exhausted, slap their partners faces. Then the men slap the women's faces vigorously. The Yahoos, called "fans," looking on, shriek with delight, as the half crazed dancers strike each other.

Such is our poor imitation of the Roman arena.

"CITIES OF CORPSES" will be one feature of the next big war, according to German experts. It will be a "gas war" and nations may be destroyed without the firing of a shot. Masses of troops would be wiped out instantly, not a man escaping, and armies will never again take the field.

SIR FRANK FOX says, in his book, "The Mastery of the Pacific": "London might be destroyed as a habitable city within an hour of the declaration of war, by a great bombing air fleet."

A NATION contemplating war should first build underground habitations for its population, store food there, build ammunition factories underground. And, if possible, "science should seek out some form of fungus vegetation capable of supporting life, which could be cultivated under ground."

Germany says this country leads all nations in making obstructive gasses and explosives. Not true, probably, but welcome news if it be true.

We shall attack no one, and gas no one, unless attacked. But we should be so well prepared in the air and in chemical laboratories, as to make any attack on us equivalent to national suicide for the nation attacking.

As it is, unfortunately, we are completely unprepared, in the air, at the mercy of any air invasion.

MRS. HAZEL GLAB

Mrs. Hazel Belford Glab and her niece, Ethyl Kaser, 17, Oklahoma City, have been formally charged in Los Angeles today with the murder of Mrs. Glab's husband, John I. Glab, formerly of Cicero, Ill. Police are uncovering evidence of threats in a triangle: Glab, his wife and W. R. McIntyre, former Los Angeles policeman, admitted by Mrs. Glab to have been a suitor of hers before her marriage.

PGH. MAN MARRIES GIRL WIFE ACCUSED

RENO, Nev., June 21.—Frank B. Ninness, wealthy coat and apron supply man of North Side, Pittsburgh, Pa., yesterday married Miss Genevieve Reagel, his secretary and partner in the business, after obtaining a divorce from his first wife to whom he had been married 31 years and who had borne him eight children.

The same Reno judge who heard the divorce action and granted the decree married Ninness and Miss Reagle.

Mrs. Clara Ninness, of 24 Nachez street, Pittsburgh, last December brought suit against Miss Reagle for $100,000 for alienating her husband's love. Ninness charged his wife with extreme cruelty and said she twice tried to shoot him. She did not contest the divorce action here.

Mrs. Clara Ninness in a statement at the time she sued Miss Clara Reagle in the Allegheny County Courts for $100,000 heart balm, charged that the "affair" between her husband and his secretary had been "going on for a long time," and said she had begged him to think of his children before yielding to his "infatuation" for Miss Reagle, but that he turned a deaf ear to her pleas.

Frank B. Ninness is president of the Ideal Coat and Apron Company, Park Way, North Side, and Miss Reagle, whose home was at 2466 Veteran street, was executive secretary of the company. She entered a general denial to the charges of Mrs. Ninness. The Ninnesses were married November 26, 1896, and eight children were born to the couple, several of whom live in Pittsburgh.

AMUNDSEN'S SILENCE HELD DEATH SIGN

LONDON, June 21.—(AP.)—Fears are increasing for the safety of Capt. Roald Amundsen, Lieut. Lief Dietrichsen and the crew of the plane in which they flew from Bergen Monday toward the Arctic wastes in search of Gen. Nobile and his men. No news has been received of the plane since it started on the last lap of its northward voyage.

Capt. Amundsen previously had planned to go with another expedition, but when the French aviator, Rene Guilbaud, announced his intention of flying to Nobile's relief and wished to take Amundsen along, the famous explorer jumped at the chance.

The plane was equipped with wireless for receiving and sending, and is believed to have had supplies of petrol sufficient for a flight of 2,500 miles. But the prolonged period of silence has created the gravest anxiety for Amundsen and his companions.

The London papers recall Amundsen's notably gallant gesture in going to the rescue of Gen. Nobile after their disagreement over the details of their polar flight of 1926. These differences were forgotten, and as soon as Amundsen heard that his old-time associate was in peril, he was ready to lend all aid possible. Now Nobile has been located definitely and Amundsen is missing.

Hope of finding those of the Nobile party who parted from their leader is growing dim. Ten are missing of the Italia's crew—the

PGH. GIVEN COAL SEA OUTLET

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad to build an extension of its line between Cochrans Mill and Connellsville, Pa., a distance of 38 miles.

The action of the Interstate Commerce Commission means permission for the linking up of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the Wabash and the Western Maryland in a new railroad trunk line which will open direct service out of Pittsburgh territory for traffic from the West to the Baltimore area and the sea. It means the realization of a dream cherished by Joseph Ramsey, president of the Wabash Railroad, when he built the Pittsburgh extension, more than 20 years ago.

The Pittsburgh company proposes to spend $12,800,000 in its extension between Cochran's Mill, on the West Side Belt, and Connellsville, where connection will be made with the Western Maryland, according to facts given in the traffic division advice letter of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. The extension will cross the Monongahela River near Charleroi and will furnish a new direct route, via the Western Maryland, from Pittsburgh to Baltimore, where coal and other shipments can be loaded on ocean vessels.

Three vice chairmen were named, as follows: Ralph E. Williams, of Oregon; Mrs. Alvin T. Hurt, of Kentucky; D. E. Pomeroy, of New Jersey.

Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, was named secretary, and J. R. Nutt, of Cleveland, treasurer.

The selections were announced by James Francis Burke, of Pittsburgh, general counsel of the G. O. P. committee, who said that the committee would ratify the choice of Hoover within an hour. Burke was renamed general counsel.

BUCS FARM PITCHER

Lester Bartholomew, second-string lefthander of the Pirate pitching staff, this afternoon was released under option to the Dallas club of the Texas League.

Bartholomew, a youth weighing 190 pounds, was a sensation in the spring training period, and he gave several pleasing relief performances since the season opened. But the rookie has had scant experience and is in need of further seasoning.

The Pirates were nice to behold as they returned from their long tour, Forbes Field patrons getting a real thrill out of them as the Freebooters won a slab duel with the Reds yesterday. The Buccos today were confident they could repeat inasmuch as Carmen Hill, of Corry, was ready to go to Fogarty Knoll in the interest of the home team.

Jones had a few lapses with the wood and iron, but his putter saved

JAFFE PAYS DANCERS

George Jaffe, proprietor of the Academy Theater, today became the angel of six marathon dancers who hung up a record of 303 hours of continuous dancing.

When E. J. Murray and F. J. Schume, promoters of the dance, are said to have departed, leaving only $464 for prize money, Jaffe peeled his roll of greenbacks and peeled deeply. Today he gave each couple who had remained in the bunion derby over 100 hours, $100, and provided enough to make up the $1,000 purse to be divided between the three couples who danced until Dr. D. E. Sable, police surgeon, ordered a halt.

Before Jaffe came through, however, marathoners and their train-

TOWN HALL ATTACK BRANDED UNTRUE

George S. Davison, chairman of the Town Hall Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, this morning made public a copy of a letter which he had sent to Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, calling attention to inaccuracies in her public statement attacking the public auditorium and other items in the peoples' bond issue to be voted upon next Tuesday. Mr. Davison said that, according to the official records, Sunday revenues are not an important factor in the success of the Cleveland auditorium, as alleged by Mrs. Smith.

Mr. Davison's letter follows:

"Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman, Allegheny County League of Women Voters, Pittsburgh, Pa.—

"My Dear Mrs. Smith:

"We are assuming that the League of Women Voters, when authorizing you to make statements in its behalf, desires you to conform to some degree of accuracy in what you say. You are quoted in today's papers as having stated, among other things, that 'A very large part of the Cleveland public hall's revenue comes from Sunday performances of one sort or another.' This statement is not true, and a little bit of inquiry upon the part of the League of Women Voters would have prevented the issuance of it.

MADE INVESTIGATION

"Before we definitely urged the County Commissioners to include the town hall item of $6,000,000 in the proposed bond issue, we looked into this very question. We sent a representative to Cleveland; and, as a result thereof, the following letter was received by us from the office of Mr. Lincoln G. Dickey, manager of the Public Auditorium of the city of Cleveland, under date of March 23, 1928:

"'Your representative called this morning and requested that we furnish you with a little definite information concerning the volume of our Sunday business here in the Public Auditorium.

TOOL OF TRUST REVEALS PLOT

BLOWS IN $1,000 ON CLOTHES

LONDON, June 21.—(AP.)—Miss Amelia Earhart went shopping again today in company with Mrs. Frederick Guest, the former Amy Phipps, of Pittsburgh, sponsor of the trans-Atlantic flight of the Friendship, while a crowd stood vainly in front of her hotel in a drizzling rain, hoping to catch a glimpse of the young woman who flew the Atlantic.

Miss Earhart has bought $1,000 worth of clothes, but needs some more. She has been proceeding with her shopping scientifically, buying necessary frocks first and then doing miscellaneous purchasing.

While Miss Earhart shopped, Wilmer Stultz, pilot of the Friendship, and Louis Gordon, mechanic, spent several hours at Croydon Airdrome, where they inspected the British airplanes used in the London-Paris service. Gordon, who had never seen a British airplane engine previously, was particularly interested and asked the airway officials and mechanics many questions.

ers stormed the office looking for Murray and Schume.

The wail of six marathon dancers, who hung up a world's record of 303 hours in the Academy Theater over the absence of prize money, had no effect on the hoofers in the other local contest.

Out in Duquesne Garden 21 couples were shuffling along on 186 hours at 2 p. m., and in Motor Square seven Negro couples had pushed 253 hours into the background at the same time.

At Duquesne Garden, it was said, the crowd was looking up, the largest attendance since the dance began last night passing the turnstiles, which registered 6,000.

Dr. D. E. Sable, who ordered the Academy Theater dance stopped, examined the dancers at Duquesne Garden last night and found them fit. Ten teams were reported to be in excellent condition.

To show that the dancers are in good physical shape, two-minute exhibition dance specials are put on by each team, when the couples dance around the floor at high speed. It is planned to take the dancers aboard the Japanese Garden pleasure boat Saturday night to avoid conflict with the Sunday blue laws.

One couple dropped out of the Motor Square contest last night.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 21.—Eighteen couples were still dancing in the local marathon contest at 2 oclock this afternoon, 85 hours after the start.

SMITH AIDE RAISES ISSUE

HOUSTON, Tex., June 21.—The statement of Norman Mack, New York national committeeman, that Gov. Alfred E. Smith is "opposed to prohibition," but favors states' rights, personal liberty and temperance, brought the prohibition issue out into the open in the pre-battle maneuvering today among Democratic convention forces.

While Mack is close to Smith and a member of his advance "board of strategy," many Smith followers preferred to await a statement direct from the Governor rather than to take Mack's words as final.

As a matter of fact, Mack himself emphasized that his statement was merely an expression of his own personal views and added that "no one here is authorized to express Gov. Smith's mind on any subject of such importance."

Mack, on his own behalf, had decried expenditure of millions of dollars for liquor enforcement, and he had said in a written statement that "the people in the states of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and New York spend the greater portion of their time and money imbibing the liquors so easily obtained in Canada in the various provinces."

He said Gov. Smith believed in letting states determine the alcoholic percentage of their beverages, adding: "If a state desires to be dry, then it is the right of that state to be dry."

TRAP FOR SCOUTS BARED

WASHINGTON, June 21.—A tale of power trust slander of critics, bribery of newspapers through advertising, public school debauchery and spiritual revolt was unfolded before the Federal Trade Commission yesterday in lurid terms that put fiction to the blush.

At every point it was confirmed by official documents subpenaed from files of power propagandists and by sworn testimony.

J. B. Sheridan, of St. Louis, whose letters indicated that for nearly five years he had been at war with himself over the methods of the men he served, supplied both the documents and the testimony. At the end of two hours his face was strained, his voice had dropped almost to a whisper, and he appeared on the verge of a breakdown.

He admitted, in written record and testimony, a leading part in an attempt to revolutionize the education of 20,000,000 school children by censoring text books.

COVETED SCOUTS

In letters read into the record he acclaimed a project to seize control of the Boy Scout and Girl Scout movements of the country in order to build up among the citizens-to-be a "friendly attitude toward the power interests and their methods. This project was shown to have been promoted by E. C. Deal, of the Giant Electric Bond and Share Company.

A few minutes later Robert E. Healy, commission chief counsel, threw into the record a dramatic sequence of letters written by Sheridan and another propagandist, the extremists among utility executives, who support the propapanda and the power lobby for "lying, trimming, faking and downright evasion of trust."

John W. Colton of New York, editing an American Electric Railway Association magazine at the time, was the other man.

Sheridan then admitted on the stand that he had been "bothered" by reports that "there was certain speculation in the scale of public utility securities." He affirmed his faith that 90 per cent of the utility industry is "good and honest."

AFTER A SCALP

In the subpenaed letters and reports Sheridan demanded that Carl D. Thompson, a Chautauqua speaker who advocated public ownership of utilities, be "annihilated," and set powerful machinery of money and influence in motion to bring that about.

He circulated through his Missouri utility propaganda bureau a pamphlet which taught thousands of school children that the great electric power, light and street car companies were owned by "widows and orphans."

DON'T WANT "FUGITIVES" HERE

International News Service.

DETROIT, June 21.—Three men were taken into custody at the Book-Cadillac Hotel early today, and are held as fugitives for Pittsburgh.

One of the men gave his occupation as a county assessor. He is Michael Ricci, 28. The two others, Michael Derosa, 24, and Joseph Comfort, said they were Ricci's assistants.

Derosa, according to police, is the son of a wealthy politician.

Word from Pittsburgh is being awaited today as to what disposition to make of the fugitive charges.

Michael DeRosa, Michael Ricci and Joseph Comfort, held in Detroit, are not wanted by Pittsburgh police, Detective Inspector Frank Boyd announced today. They went to Detroit a week ago to promote a marathon dance. DeRosa is well known in the East End district. Ricci is a field assessor for the county, having charge of the Twelfth Ward, and resides at 1625 Westmoreland avenue. Comfort resides at 6045 Stanton avenue.

DEPUTIES' SLAYER FIRM

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, June 21.—(AP.)—Punica Ratchitch, Montenegrin deputy, who shot and killed two other deputies and wounded four in the Jugoslav Parliament yesterday, lost none of his nerve when arraigned before a magistrate today on a charge of murder.

"I am ready to be taken out immediately and shot without trial," he exclaimed. "I have fulfilled my task."

When Ratchitch previously had tried to see the minister of the interior, Father Korosetch, the latter said: "I receive no murderers. Surrender to the gendarmes in my anteroom."

Ratchitch was asked why he carried a revolver in Parliament, and replied: "Oh, everybody in the Balkans carries a small arsenal in his belt, why not I?"

All Jugoslavia is mourning the victims of yesterdays' tragedy. The newspapers have appeared in black borders. Many stores, theaters, moving picture houses and cafes are closed; tram cars and trains have ceased to run temporarily.

The shooting resulted from intense feeling engendered by debate over the Jugoslav-Italian treaty (Nettuno treaty). This pact was before the chamber for ratification at the time of the assassinations.

EX-BACKER CHARGES RUN-OUT

International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Thea Rasche, the "flying fraulein," will be unable to take off today for Old Orchard, Me., on the first leg of her projected flight to Berlin in the plane recently purchased for her by Mrs. James A. Stillman, wife of the multi-millionaire banker.

A court order taken out by Calvin Harris, flight director of the Hollis Corporation, previous backers of her flight, will prevent her hop-off before tomorrow afternoon at the earliest. A similar injunction has been served upon A. R. Martine, from whom Mrs. Stillman obtained the giant Bellanca plane for Miss Rasche's flight.

Mrs. Stillman said:

"I am flying to Old Orchard. I would like to fly across the Atlantic, but that is a question of weight. So the question must await final determination until after we have made our load tests at Old Orchard."

According to Harris the contract gave Miss Rasche an allowance of $100 weekly for expenses, with 50 per cent of all profits which might accrue. Miss Rasche denied she had broken the contract, declaring that the Hollis Corporation had failed to fulfill their undertaking to supply her with a plane by June 10.

Pittsburgh As Others See Us

"Let the employers and the financial powers of this great city (Pittsburgh) enlist the good-will of the mass of the wage earners; . . . let there be co-operation and there will be a new Pittsburgh, greater than anyone has yet imagined."* —MATTHEW WOLL.

MATTHEW WOLL, labor leader, born in Luxemburg, January 25, 1880; came to United States in 1891 and was educated at Lake Forest University. Learned photo-engraver's trade and has been president of the Photo-Engravers' International Union since 1906. Served on War Labor Board and President Harding's Unemployment Conference. Lives in Chicago.

MATTHEW WOLL

Pittsburgh is a city of many sides. Its people, in the mass, are much like the people of other cities, with the same average of fine impulses and progressive ideas. Pittsburgh, on the other hand, contains an extremely powerful band of men, small in number, but influential to an unusual degree in shaping the destinies of large masses of men and women. In this small group we find the men who stand for such an autocracy as the coal industry, where courts and police are so bound to the chariot of financial power that independence in law enforcement is no longer expected. Abuse of power has no doubt led to a cynicism that sees a darker picture than really exists, but nevertheless the abuse has been amazing.

Pittsburgh is a city of industry. Great forces center here. Great forces contend for power. Contention for power has led to wrong ideas as to the value of power. Normally "good" men, possessed of power, abuse that power, almost inevitably. In this age we can have no such thing as a good autocrat.

Pittsburgh's great human masses have been denied many rights, both industrial and political. But those denials cannot forever hold human progress in check. Fundamentally the city is no different from many others. Its readjustment will come and the sooner the better. Let the employers and the financial powers of this great city enlist the good-will of the masses of wage earners; let them bring into play the tremendous forces that are now locked up by the hostility of those who seek unrestrained power; let there be co-operation and there will be a new Pittsburgh, greater than anyone has yet imagined.

Before leaving, Miss Boll presented $500 to officials of the airport at Harbor Grace in appreciation of their efforts in behalf of her intended flight.

Peddle Land for Golf and Caddy, Will's Advice

CLAREMORE, Okla., June 21.—Say, what do you know about Claremore having a golf course? I tell you turning land into a golf course is the salvation of the farmer—that's the only thing to do with land now. Sell your land and caddy! Say, there is a lot of people down here that haven't paid their bet against Smith yet. I have been led to believe that it was all over. I am flying today to Fort Worth, the ranchman's postoffice. Hurrah for Amon Carter, West Texas, and Dan Moody. Jessie Jones get me some chili ready, and a ticket to the hall where they are exhibiting the New York delegation!

WILL ROGERS

Yours, WILL.

P. S.—Claremore's got a manicurist. Here's the town for the Democrats in '32 if they meet again.

VIOLA STOLLBERG

How all the "hello girls" of these broad lands must envy Viola Stollberg! Queen of Wisconsin telephone operators, she has been selected to operate the switchboard at Cedar Island Lodge, where President Coolidge has chosen (There's that word again!) to spend the summer.

Man, Wife Rout Pole Planters

Aroused when a Bell Telephone Company crew tried to put a pole in front of their home, 7119 Lemington avenue, today, Joseph Shea and his wife, Catherine, routed the workmen.

Mrs. Shea stood on a board over a hole dug by the telephone employes while her husband, with a firm grip on a club, warned the crew of eight men to keep their distance.

After parleying an hour and a half, the crew called police from Frankstown avenue station, who informed both sides they were neutral and all they would attempt to do would be to prevent disorder. At this word the crew departed.

Robbed, He Later Spys Bandit

F. R. Thomas, 142 Brownsville road, contributed $18 and a gold watch to an armed highwayman who stepped from his auto on Clairton road last midnight.

About 3 o'clock this morning, Thomas reported to South Side police that he had found the robber and his car at South Nineteenth and Carson streets, but when the police arrived the car had disappeared. Thomas furnished a license number to county detectives, who are using it to trace the owner.

CAROL DIVORCED

PRINCESS HELEN IS GRANTED DECREE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 21.—(AP.)—The Bucharest courts have granted a divorce to Princess Helen from Prince Carol, former crown prince of Rumania.

Princess Helen, deserted wife of Prince Carol, filed a formal petition for a divorce two weeks ago, the suit being instituted in the Appelate Court at Bucharest.

The Princess, who was married to the then heir to the hrone at Athens in 1921, pleaded for the divorce because of "profound affronts offered and desertion." The petition also said that Carol's present conduct is an offense to the royal court. It contains a supplementary authorization by the three regents who govern for the boy King Michael, to Princess Helen to apply for the divorce.

At first it was reported that Carol, who is living in exile, would contest the divorce, but announcement was made on June 16 that he had decided not to oppose his wife's petition.

SCRIBES LAUD NEWS FILM

Veterans of the Pittsburgh newspaper field—men who have served from 20 to 35 years in gathering and producing news for the public press—have been outspoken in their praise of "The Making of a Newspaper," two-reel film, showing this week at the Liberty Theater, Penn avenue, East End. Besides giving a thrill to the public generally, whose knowledge of the workings of newspapers is almost wholly confined to their reading the dailies, it has stirred men whose years of service on the papers have made them think "there's nothing new."

Many have seen the picture this week at the Liberty theater. They enjoyed the program which features George Bancroft in a dramatic underworld picture, "The Drag Net," a comedy, "Fiddle Sticks" with the star Harry Langdon, and Eddie Cooke and the Shaw sisters, formerly with Ziegfeld's Follies.

The virility of "Drag Net," is tense situations and the excellent acting by Bancroft and his supporting cast has created the opinion that this is Bancroft's leading piece of his career. Assisting him in principal roles are Evelyn Brent and William Powell, both strong character artists.

JUBILEE GUESTS TO BE LEGION

The Sun-Tele Jubilee will draw boys and girls from every part of Pittsburgh and from every suburban town in the county. And they're coming from away out in the country, too.

It's to be the greatest gathering of young people ever held in Western Pennsylvania—50,000 of them. Can you imagine it—more boys and girls at the National Amusement Park on Tuesday, July 3, than all the soldiers that George Washington commanded!

In some towns nearly all the children will attend The Sun-Tele's big family gathering, and in the suburbs the people are offering their automobiles to take the little folks to the park above Aspinwall. City automobile owners are doing the same for the children in their neighborhoods. The grown-ups are joining with enthusiasm in order to make it a day-never-to-be-forgotten by The Sun-Tele's young friends.

The thousands of coupons which have been sent in applying for tickets indicate the interest the younger readers of The Sun-Tele are taking in their jubilee. They are looking forward to seeing the great attractions at the park—all of which will be free—and the French Vanilla Bar, the "cream of the valley," a delicious icecream.

Now is a good time to check up with your chums and see how many are going, and if possible, arrange to go in a group. How about it?

TWO WEST VIRGINIA BOYS DROWNED IN COAL RIVER

ST. ALBANS, W. Va., June 21.—Two boys—Harold Thomas, 14, and Vincent Clendennin, 12, both of St. Albans, were drowned yesterday in Coal River, when, while wading, they stepped beyond shallow water into a hole approximately 30 feet deep. The boys had accompanied their Sunday School classmates on a picnic near Alum Creek Station. All of the children but the Thomas and Glendennin boys remained near the river bank and avoided the deep water. The Thomas boy's body was recovered.

WOMEN'S CLASS AIDS ICE FUND

An old friend, one of many years' standing, again comes to the assistance of The Sun-Tele Milk and Ice Fund and a gift of $10 from the Highland Women's Bible class of the Highland Presbyterian Church is hereby acknowledged. Year after year, many of the same names are seen on "milk and ice lists," for these donors know the value of the work done by the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Milk and Ice Association, and its importance in the life of the city. They know how the work is accomplished and with what little expense, other than for the babies, it is maintained. They realize, too, how far-reaching the effects of this work are and that as the children of a city are strong, so is that city's strength for future achievements.

FIND TRIANGLE MURDER NOTES

SIFT THREATS IN BRIDEGROOM KILLING

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—(AP.)—New notes in the overture of threats which preceded the killing of John I. Glab, former Cicero, Ill., druggist, today had been uncovered by the police.

That discovery rounded out, the authorities believed, the record of threats and counter threats exchanged between three persons involved in the case. The triangle consisted of Mrs. Hazel Glab, young bride of the victim, who has been formally accused of his murder; W. R. McIntyre, admittedly her lover in days preceding her marriage and now held as a material witness, and Glab himself.

The last threats were disclosed last night when police questioned Mrs. Marian Adams, a friend of the Glabs. McIntyre had said that a woman named "Marian" telephoned him Tuesday morning that Glab was shot down at the dooryard of his suburban home the night before.

DENIES TELEPHONING

Mrs. Adams denied telephoning McIntyre, a former Los Angeles policeman, but she did tell of repeated threats which Glab had made to shoot his wife, McIntyre and himself because "this can't go on this way."

Mrs. Adams said that at Mrs. Glab's request when she visited the widow in jail the day after the shooting, she did telephone to a "Mr. Mackenzie."

Earlier in the investigation of the case the police had been told by a maid in the Glab home and by the wife of the caretaker, that Mrs. Glab had threatened to shoot her husband during their frequent and violent quarrels. From Nevada came the report from a friend of Glab that the latter in a telephone conversation had expressed a fear of his life and said that if anything happened he would "know it was the ex-cop that did it."

Formal charges of murder were filed yesterday against Mrs. Glab and her 17-year-old niece, Miss Ethyl Kaser, of Oklahoma City, Okla.

BRIBE GIVER FAILS TO IDENTIFY TWO DETECTIVES

GRAFT TRIAL SUFFERS SETBACK

Prosecution of two suspended county detectives, charged with bribery and extortion, suffered a hard jolt as their trial got under way today, when the man from whom they are alleged to have received a bribe was unable, on the witness stand, to identify either defendant.

Defendants claimed an alibi, several witnesses supporting it with testimony to the effect that the defendants were in Pittsburgh the afternoon of April 4 until about the time the alleged bribe of $200 was said to have been given them by Tony Bresszia in his house at Glassmere.

Bresszia, testifying for the state, failed to identify defendants as the two men to whom he gave $200 when they found him operating a 200-gallon still. Mrs. Bresszia, who said she delivered the cash, also failed to identify defendants.

Attorney William H. Coleman is special prosecuting attorney, appointed by the court on petition of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, and A. M. Oliver represented the defendants.

GREETED HERE

HALL ATTACK CALLED UNTRUE

He gave us the impression that you were rather fearful that the Sunday restrictions in Pittsburgh might prove very detrimental to the successful operation of your auditorium when completed.

"'Our experience here does not to any considerable extent justify your fears in this connection. During the year 1927, which was our busiest year, only 17 Sunday engagements were scheduled and the revenue derived from these dates, except during exposition periods, was comparatively small. The 17 Sunday usages were as follows: Symphony orchestra concerts, four; basketball games, three; religious services, two; conventions, one; expositions and trade shows, seven.

ESTIMATE IMPOSSIBLE

"'The revenue derived on Sundays from the industrial exposition, the auto show, the flower show and the sport show was of course very large. It is fair to assume, however, that if the building had been closed on Sunday that a considerable percentage of this attendance would have been on hand during the week, but it is of course impossible to even approximately estimate what the net loss in revenue would amount to in that event.

"'There is a possibility, it seems to me, that some events could be staged in Pittsburgh on Sundays without in any way violating the existing laws. In this connection we have in mind religious meetings and convention sessions. We trust that the information contained in this letter will be of some assistance to you and that you will feel free to call on us if at any time we can be helpful in any way.'

"The original of this letter is on file with the committee's records and may be examined by any one at any time. We sincerely trust that you will see fit to verify the letter itself and the contents thereof and to make any additional statement which the investigation would seem to dictate. This should be done as promptly as possible, in fairness to the people of Allegheny county, as the election on the bond issue is only a few days away.

"Yours very truly,
"GEO. S. DAVISON, Chairman."

WOMAN ATTACKS BONDS

Launching a general attack on the proposed $43,680,000 county bond issue, Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, in an open letter to the League membership declares that "there seems to be a lot of hokus-pokus" in at least one of the projects, and objection is made to the whole question of increasing the burdens of the taxpayers.

She asserts that many of the improvements would be obsolete within 30 years, or before the bonds would be paid off. Mrs. Smith cites the revolution in modern transportation as a case in point, declaring that the expansion of automobile traffic and the adoption of commercial aviation will make present-day highways as much out of date in 30 years as the dirt roads of 1898 are today.

RAPS TOWN HALL

The proposed town hall, the letter states, is obviously for the benefit of business interests in downtown Pittsburgh, especially the big hotel corporations," and asks, "Is it so certain that the town hall would not prove a white elephant on the hands of the county?" She declares that it is unfair to compare the Cleveland auditorium with a similar building in Pittsburgh as a revenue producer for the reason that Cleveland is an "open town," where a large part of the hall's receipts are obtained from Sunday performances. The letter continues:

"Particularly so at this time of widespread business depression and unemployment, when any such addition to the tax burden must tremendously accentuate the already hazardous situation of the less wealthy class of taxpayers, who are struggling to hold onto what little they have.

TIME NOT RIPE

"Such a time is scarcely propitious for expenditure of $9,000,000 for construction of scenic boulevards, luxurious and desirable as they may be.

"Another point upon which the taxpayers are entitled to information before being called upon to vote upon the pending question, is the status of the County Commissioners' own bonding power independent of the voters. Is there not a possibility that the $14,000,000 said to remain in the bonding power of the board will be exhausted before the end of the present administration, as was the case in the preceding four years, thus adding materially to the burdent the people are asked to assume?

"In view of all this, may it not be wise for the taxpayers of Allegheny county to do a bit of plain and fancy thinking before deciding to add $73,469,760 to their already heavy bonded indebtedness?"

FEAR FELT FOR AMUNDSEN

three who started across the ice to seek aid May 30 and the seven who drifted eastward in the balloon part of the Italia after it crashed May 25.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Associated Press.)

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 21.—(AP.)—Cheered by the 650 pounds of provisions dropped yesterday upon his camp off North East Land by Maj. Maddalena, Gen. Umberto Nobile today sent further radio directions for the rescue of his stranded party.

The general and the five men with him, who have been short of food and in difficult straits since May 25, when the dirigible Italia met disaster by crashing on an ice peak on its return from the North Pole, were in wireless communication with the base ship Citta di Milano concerning the present situation.

He gave instructions about what further procedure is to be followed in rescuing his party and gave details as to what were the conditions on the ice where he is stranded, and the exact position of his camp.

Before giving these directions concerning the rescue plans, however, Gen. Nobile expressed his gratitude to Maj. Maddalena and the assistant pilot of the Savoia-Marchetti-55 as well as to Maj. Mercanti, director-general of the Italian aviation department, who organized the relief expedition and gave up his seat in the plane so that more fuel might be carried.

In fact, the first words of Nobile's message were:

"I kiss and embrace the two fliers and Mercanti."

MAKE PICNIC DATES EARLY

Persons wishing dates for outings and picnics in the county's North and South parks in the future must make application for dates two weeks in advance. Director of County Parks Paul B. Riis made this announcement today. Due to the popularity of the parks and the hundreds of requests being received for picnic dates, it was found impossible to allot groves on short notice.

BANISHED ALL HER SUFFERING

Ten Herbs Cleansed System and Relieved Rheumatism and Indigestion, Lady Says.

"Ten Herbs banished all my suffering and benefited me so much that I only wish I could persuade all who suffer as I did to try your medicine, as I feel sure they would be helped as I have been," was the statement of Mrs. C. J. Coe, R. F. D. 2, Greensburg, Pa., to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine.

MRS. C. J. COE

"I had two attacks of intestinal influenza, which left me in a very weakened and run-down condition," Mrs. Coe continued. My whole system seemed saturated with poison, which I was unable to get rid of due to severe chronic constipation. My appetite was poor and my stomach so weak I had to very careful what I ate, and what little I did eat caused intense pain in my stomach and around my heart, the result of gas. At times I was so short of breath I could not walk across the room without resting. My kidneys also were in very bad condition. I had rheumatic pains and there were pains across my back, which would become so sore and stiff that I could hardly arise in the morning.

"I had read of Ten Herbs helping so many persons that I decided to try your medicine, although I had about given up hope of finding anything that would build up my systme. After taking Ten Herbs a few days I felt improved and began to eat and sleep better. Then I gained in strength due to my stomach being able to digest food properly. My bowels became regular and my system seemed to throw off the poisons that had troubled me. Rheumatic pains now are gone and I arise in the morning feeling better than I have for years."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Sewickley, With Golf Tourney, Garden Party and Debut, Becomes Center of Social Interest

FROM all appearance, Sewickley is going to be quite the center of social interest during the next couple of days. All sorts of things are scheduled for tomorrow and Saturday, not the least of which will be the women's invitation golf tournament at the Allegheny Country Club. Then there is the Civic Club's garden party Saturday afternoon and on the same afternoon Mrs. John Joy Edson will give a tea to bring out her daughter, Jane.

As for the tournament, the first player will tee off at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, I understand, and for the sake of the famous women golfers who are coming on for the event and the committee which has arranged it all, let us hope that the skies will be clear. The two days' play will close with a mixed foursome on Saturday afternoon, according to the chairman, Mrs. James M. Schoonmaker, Jr.

PARK BUS BAN QUESTIONED

The question as to whether the Public Service Commission has jurisdiction to regulate what kind and type motor passenger vehicles may travel through city parks was raised in Council yesterday.

Representatives of Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, sometime ago filed a petition with the commission asking for a certificate permitting them to run sight-seeing busses through city parks. The hearing was to have come up yesterday. It was postponed when Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang filed a protest.

Taxicabs which are public conveyances are permitted to travel the parks, officials of the coach company pointed out. "Why deny those who cannot offord the money to hire a cab from seeing the beauties of our parks," an official said.

Council was not sure whether the Public Service Commission could grant permission and ordered the city law department to file an opinion with council. A hearing on the question will be held later.

CHILD, 3, DIES OF LOCKJAW

Lockjaw, resulting when a plaster cast chafed her leg, caused the death of Willa Stayden, 3, of 517 Chester avenue, North Side, in St. John's Hospital last night, according to a report to the coroner today. The child suffered a broken leg seven weeks ago when she fell from a wall while playing in front of her home. Held fast in a cast to allow knitting of the bones, her flesh became irritated and tetanus developed several days ago.

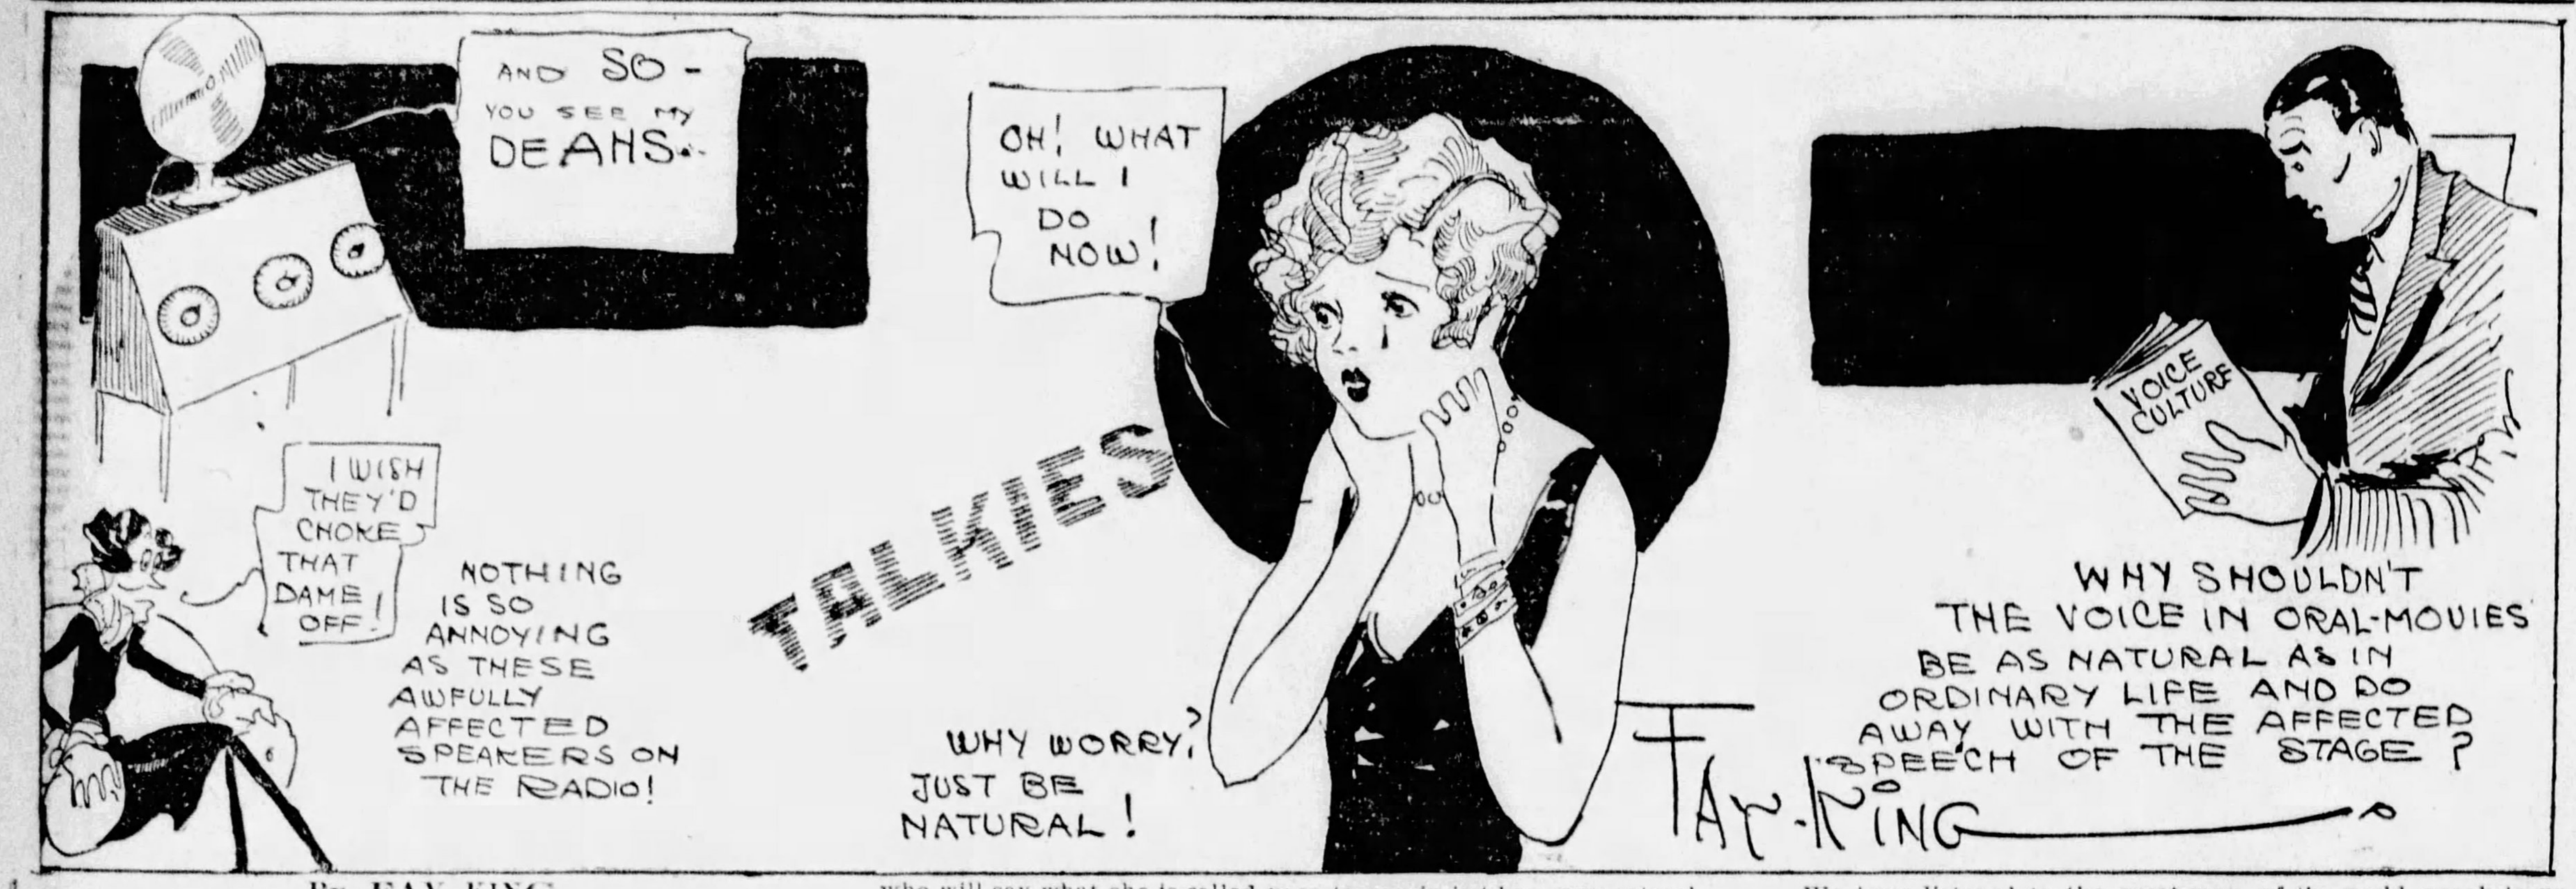
Fay King Urges Natural Voice in Talkie-Movie



AND SO - YOU SEE MY DEAHS -
I WISH THEY'D CHOKE THAT DAME OFF!
NOTHING IS SO ANNOYING AS THESE AWFULLY AFFECTED SPEAKERS ON THE RADIO!
OH! WHAT WILL I DO NOW!
TALKIES
WHY WORRY? JUST BE NATURAL!
VOICE CULTURE
WHY SHOULDN'T THE VOICE IN ORAL-MOVIES BE AS NATURAL AS IN ORDINARY LIFE AND DO AWAY WITH THE AFFECTED SPEECH OF THE STAGE?
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

ACCORDING to the chroniclers of doings in Hollywood, many of the popular movie stars are much worried over the fact that the silent movie is about to become oral!

Must the movie cuties become elocuties now?

I see no need for worry. It seems to me that any movie star who will say what she is called upon to say in just her own natural way will be much more popular than those who will "elocute!"

The radio has done a great deal to show up the difference in value between the straightforward simple speech and the exaggerated affectation of other speakers.

Many a speaker is choked off a radio because of sing song studied intonations that sound so insincere and super-sweet.

We have listened to the great men of the world speak to us over the radio and not one sounded the way an actor would have read the lines!

I hav sat at the smart opening of a society play and recognized near me in the audience persons whose real places in life are those which the players on the stage were impersonating.

Yet their chats during intermission did not sound one bit like the affected voices of the actors and actresses upon the stage.

URGE ROAD WORK TO AID IDLE

"Periods of unemployment might virtually be eliminated if public improvements were constructed during seasons of industrial depression," is the declaration of a road builder.

Continuing he said:

"A new demand for labor would automatically be created. The purchasing power of the average citizen would be increased. With this increased purchasing power would come an increased demand for goods. The results would be renewed activity in our factories. The activities of our governing bodies would thus help materially in correcting an economic ill.

"Let us see how this works out in the road building industry. In constructing the 7,000 miles of concrete rural roads and 3,200 miles of streets last year, it was necessary to transport and mix 38,000,000 cubic yards of cement, sand, gravel, stone and slag. To build a single mile of concrete roadway 18 feet wide requires roughly two train loads of these materials. The amount of labor requires for these operations can easily be appreciated.

"Recently Representative Cellar, of Brooklyn, presented a resolution in the House of Representatives suggesting that Federal government construction of roads and other structures be speeded up to relieve the present unemployment situation. He points out that factory unemployment is greater now than during the industrial slump of 1921. Representative Celler's proposal is much in line with that of Gov. Smith, of New York, who recently urged the acceleration of all of New York state's construction projects in the efforts to stabilize employment.

"If states and counties intensify their public improvement programs during periods of industrial depression, they will cut down unemployment and help the country to return to a state of economic stability. The need for more smooth surfaced roads is evident when one considers that there is less than one mile of such highway for every 450 automobiles now in use. This need can be met at no better time than when there is danger of industrial depression."

HOLD 2 DEATH CAR DRIVERS

Drivers of two automobiles that figured in fatal accidents were held on manslaughter charges by a coroner's jury today. Edward T. Jones, 3259 East street, was held in connection with the death on June 10 of George H. Wagner, 44, of 262 Waldorf street, who was struck at East street and Evergreen road.

John Shuplock, 605 Cabot way, was held on a similar charge for the death of Joseph Thoma, 78, of 753 Manton street, the result of an auto accident at South Twelfth and Sarah streets on June 12.

NAME OFFICERS FOR ITALIAN BANK SOON

The new Italian bank and trust company, recently launched by a group of prominent local Italian business and professional men, will probably be known as the Bank of America at Pittsburgh, it was learned from members of the organization committee. The institution will have capital of $500,000 and an initial surplus of $150,000, all of which has been subscribed. Stockholders will meet shortly to name directors who will elect the officers. Subscriptions for the stock were widely distributed with no individual being allotted more than $13,000.

Organization of the bank and the subscription campaign were carried out in a comparatively short time by committess headed by William P. Ortale and G. A. Pivirotto. All promotion work in connection with the project was done without compensation to any of the men identified with the movement. It is understood that one of the most prominent bankers in the country is acting in an advisory capacity in connection with the organization of the bank and that he will come to Pittsburgh shortly to deliver an address on banking practices to the stockholders and committee members. The bank will be located in the downtown triangle, on a site to be selected from three now under consideration.

COURT HALTS SCHOOL BUILDING CONTRACT

Judge Frank P. Patterson has enjoined the Baldwin Township School Board from letting a contract for the erection of a school building to A. C. Slencamp for $36,900, on the ground that insufficient investigation was made by the board in awarding the contract for the work. The Dick Construction Company, the lowest bidder, which brought the action asking for a preliminary injunction restraining the board from going ahead with the work. The Dick company's bid was several thousand dollars lower than that of the contractor awarded the job.

"NATURELLE"
Permanent Waving

A new process that results in a marvelously beautiful wave so closely resembling a natural wave or a loose, flat marcel, that even experts are deceived. There is absolutely no sign of kink . . . nor is after-setting or finger-waving necessary to keep the wave at its alluring best.

Many of our clients have voiced their extreme pleasure with their "Naturelle" Wave, and we will be glad to show their written appreciation. Living Models with Naturelle Waves are in the Beauty Shop at all times.

"Joy of Living"

FULL of the "Joy of Living", are healthy little girls and boys. Clear-eyed, rosy-cheeked. Happy! And Heinz Rice Flakes are the kind of food that keeps them so.

First of all, this delicate new cereal tastes so good. Crispy; crunchy; like golden-brown nutmeats.

But it's "so good" for another reason, too! For Heinz Rice Flakes are naturally "laxatized" by an entirely new process in cereal-making. This process was developed and is owned exclusively by Heinz. It so utilizes the natural roughage of the rice itself as to impart to the flakes the qualities of a mild, natural laxative.

The whole family will respond to the new taste-thrill of Heinz Rice Flakes. And Heinz Rice Flakes will respond to the needs of the whole family by helping Nature to keep them in the pink of health—full of the "Joy of Living".

Council was urged yesterday to pass an ordinance for the grading, paving and curbing of Cumberland street, Crafton Heights, by a delegation of residents of the street. The improvement would cost about $34,000. No promise that the street would be improved was made, but the delegation was told that Council would give the matter careful consideration when the proper time came.

Movies' "Million Dollar Kid" To Produce Picture Based on Titanic's Tragic Sea Voyage

By REGINA CREWE

(Copyright 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 21.

IT WOULD seem that the movies have at least temporarily exhausted the wonders of the earth as their background, and will now take a fling at filming their stories in the heavens above it or the seas beneath. Numerous air tales are scheduled to appear next season, and several more will be made on the briny deep.

Among these will be a screen yarn adapted from a story basend on the mighty calamity which befell the steamship Titanic. The producer is none other than Hollywood's Howard Hughes, the millionaire kid of filmdom, who has just spent two million to make the air epic, "Hell's Angel," as he wanted it made.

The Titanic story is from the pen of Wilson Mizner, adventurer extraordinary, who, like so many more of his genius, has found the celluloid kingdom a land of plenty. Plenty of this and plenty of that. Lewis Milestone, who has just completed "The Racket" for Mr. Hughes' Company, Caddo, will direct. Several of the "Angels" and "Racket" cast will be used in "Titantic" — Louis Wolheim, Raymond Griffith, Ben Lyon, Lucien Prival and others.

Speaking of the Titantic, mightiest ship of its day, a friend has the last photograph ever taken of the ship. It was snapped as the great vessel left the harbor at Cobh, Ireland, on its first—and last—fateful journey. A second "shot" shows Capt. Smith waving a final farewell to the last land he ever saw.

Perhaps Richard Dix hasn't recovered sufficiently from his operation to feel much like whooping it up. Especially when the whoops are "war-whoops." In any event, "Redskin," which was to be his first vehicle, has been postponed, and "Moran of the Marines" will have the situation well in hand. Ruth Elder, of aerial fame, is in Hollywood bound to appear as Richard's leading lady in her first picture.

They certainly seem afraid of unhappy endings in production circles. Logical or not, the Pollyanna boys must have their sunshine before the final fadeout. I'm just thinking of all the naughty words Jim Cruze is going to say when he learns that his picture, "The Red Mark," is having a smile tacked on the end of it to supplant the note of powerful, stark tragedy which James insists is one of the finest things he has ever done. Howard Higgin has been retained to brush the clouds away.

Irene Rich has made an arrangement to star in the first photodrama to be made by a brand new company. It is called "The Condemned Woman," and the company is Ferry Productions. The picture is to be directed by Robert Dillon, a brother of John Francis Dillon, who has made a name for himself with the megaphone. Beryl Roberts plays the ingenue part.

"Conquest" is the thrill-inspiring title of the sound-picture which Monte Blue will make next for Warner Brothers. Monte is hurrying back from a European vacation to get busy at the studio. His leading lady will be Lois Wilson, who recently has been a pleasant surprise even to her close friends by proving to be as fine a stage actress as she is on the screen. Lois earns two salaries these days, and works hard for both of them. If you believe that the life of an actress is a sinecure—just ask "The Covered Wagon" girl.

Acting in pictures may be a tough life, but still and all it has its compensations. You'll agree, I'm sure, when you come out and get a look at Harold Lloyd's two million dollar estate in Beverly Hills. It is a veritable paradise for Harold, Mildred and the baby, Gloria. Among other things there is a golf course. And the landscape artists have just added a beautiful waterfall to the other grandeurs of Harold's "Little Place." Right next door is Carl Laemmle's estate. At the gate is a wooden mannequin representing a Mexican, which led Larry Reid, the fan magazine editor, to ask who lived in the house that had the stuffed Mexican in the doorway.

VOCAL AND SILENT -:- ACTORS IN PROGRAMS -:- HERE NEXT WEEK

Harry Bannister will have the leading male role in "Under Cover," coming stock play in Nixon.

Florence Vidor will be seen on the screen of the Davis in "The Magnificent Flirt."

Adolphe Menjou and "His Tiger Lady" are to make the screen feature interesting in Stanley.

Mabel Kroman of the Pitt Players will appear in "The Bride," next stock comedy in Pitt.

Buster Keaton has a maritime role in "Steamboat Bill, Jr.," photoplay, booked for the Penn.

Judgment Can't Be Dodged, Says Court

Jacob Berkowitz, Lafayette street, was discharged from arrest yesterday under the insolvency act, by Judge Ambrose B. Reid, of Common Pleas Court. Some months ago Louise Pennell secured a $1,000 judgment against Berkowitz who was a tenant in her house. When Berkowitz moved out, he tore out the plumbing and did considerable damage. She sued him and got a verdict.

"You realize do you that, if you live to 1,000 years and ever possess property you will have to pay this judgment?" Judge Reid asked, addressing Berkowitz. The latter said he did, but had nothing now with which to pay the debt.

WASH-JEFF ORCHESTRA IS PLAYING AT PINES

The Wash-Jeff Orchestra furnishes music for dancing at the Pines, Perrysville road. Novelty acts and songs are presented during dinner and later. The Pines is said to be growing in popularity with dancers. The management is arranging to have the best orchestras play there this summer.

NEW PROGRAMS ANNOUNCED

"Under Cover" will afford Katherine Wilson, leading woman of the Nixon Players, with the opportunity to demonstrate her skill in emotional scenes, as well as lighter ones. "Under Cover" will be in the Nixon next week.

"The Bride," the George Sharp Players offering in the Pitt next week, served as a starring vehicle for Peggy Wood, but it is not a musical play. It is described as straight comedy drama with a touch of mystery.

Hewitt and Hall will entertain audiences in the Davis next week. They are harmony singers. The feature photoplay will be Florence Vidor in "The Magnificent Flirt."

Evelyn Brent, who played opposite George Bancroft in "The Drag Net," was assigned as Adolphe Menjou's leading woman in "His Tiger Lady," which comes to the Stanley screen next week.

Buster Keaton, in his newest comedy, "Steamboat Bill, Jr.," will be the screen feature in the Penn next week. Georgie Hayes, toe dancer, is to be one of the featured artists in the Penn's new stage show, "Sunny Skies."

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton combine again in a melodramatic comedy, "The Big Killing," announced for the Grand next week.

"Shamrocks and Tulips," a musical production, will head the vaudeville attractions in the Harris the last half of this week. The photoplay feature is "The Devil's Skipper."

Rae Samuels, "the Blue Streak of Vaudeville," will be the feature vaudeville headliner at the Sheridan Square the last half of this week. The screen feature will be "Honor Bound," with George O'Brien.

Oyster Boat Used As Casting Office

The most unique casting office for motion pictures in the world has been established at the little town of St. Michaels, Md., more than 3,000 miles away from Hollywood. Located in the tiny cabin of an oyster boat, and presided over by Director Rowland V. Lee, it is as busy as any casting office at the studios. A varied crew makes up the long line which forms daily. There are sailors, oystermen, shipbuilders, townsmen, merchants, schoolgirls, housewives and debutantes, eager to be picked for tiny parts in the film, "The First Kiss."

Every "set" used in the production of "The First Kiss," which is to co-star Fay Wren and Gary Cooper for Paramount is a "natural." That is, it was mentioned in the original story by Tristam Tupper, "Four Brothers," from which the screen play was adapted. Local extras join a supporting cast consisting of Lane Chandler, Leslie Fenton, Paul Fix, Malcolm Williams, George Nash and Monroe Owsley.

Historic Frigate Reproduced In Picture

Its stately masts towering more than a hundred feet in the air, and its impressive, cannon-laden decks 50 feet above water line, the Vanguard, Lord Nelson's first sea command, is now in action once more.

A replica of the famous old frigate of 150 years ago has been built by First National Studios for Frank Lloyd's production, "The Divine Lady," in which Corinne Griffith plays the starring role.

More than 500 extra players in the uniforms worn by the British sailors and marines of those days are now camping at the Isthmus on Catalina Island, making scenes with the picturesque old vessel.

Miss Griffith, herself, Victor Varconi as Lord Nelson, and H. B. Warner as Lord Hamilton are also at this location.

I didn't realize that I offended

How body odor almost ruined my career

"I WAS selling on the road when the good news came. An inside job—opportunity—direct contact every day with the big boss.

"Everything went fine on my first day—until the chief called me into his office. He smiled a cordial welcome and asked for some figures. But when I leaned over his desk to show them to him he suddenly drew back. Without saying another word, he briefly dismissed me.

"Several days went by. Nothing new from the chief. It was rumored I was going on the road again. I couldn't understand.

I learned the truth

"Miserably worried I told my sister the whole story. And then came the shock that was to save me from business disaster.

"'Ed, I know what the whole trouble is. I noticed it at the dance the other night. It may hurt you—but I am going to tell you to your face what I am sure others are saying behind your back.'

"And then she told me the real truth . . . body odor!"

No one is safe from body odor

Body odor is treacherous—it hurts us without our knowing it. Sets us back socially and in business in a humiliating way. And we cannot tell when we offend—because our own sense of smell becomes deadened to a familiar odor.

It's natural to perspire. It's healthful. Even in cool weather we perspire about a quart of odor-causing waste a day, doctors say. In addition, extreme heat, emotion or nervousness may cause excessive perspiration. Thus any one of us may be guilty unless we take care.

For all-day freshness—for bath-to-bath safety and confidence—use Lifebuoy Health Soap. You'll revel in its gloriously abundant lather. This pleasant antiseptic lather deeply deodorizes the pores. A TRUE BLESSING
For All Nervous and Ailing

When the good Jesuit Fathers first come to Paraguay, centuries ago, they found the native Indians drinking "Mate" to conserve their strength and to restore the sick to health.

Other tribes would travel hundreds of miles to Paraguay to get "Mate" to enjoy its blessings. Under the skillful hands of Jesuit Fathers immense Mate plantations were laid out which furnish us with—"JOYZ Yerba MATE"—today. It is simply made like tea in a teapot.

During the Great War—"JOYZ Yerba MATE"—was used for shell-shocked soldiers and other convalescents. Now used in European hospitals for Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble. Just a cup or two of this soothing drink brings a glow of youthful health and feelings of deep contentment. It calms the tired nerves and you sleep like a child. The ideal daily drink for everybody. "JOYZ Yerba MATE" is not a patent medicine but is today the National Drink of the Argentine and consumed by twenty-five million people throughout South America. Strongly endorsed by Doctors, Scientists, Pasteur Institute, Press and Clergy. ASK FOR A LARGE TIN OF "JOYZ YERBA MATE." For sale at:

An Amazing Public Tribute!

- two thousand carloads of General Electric Refrigerators delivered to users since April first

The General Electric Refrigerator has now been on the market just one year. From the day it was first announced, it was accepted by the public with truly amazing enthusiasm.

Since April first, more than 2000 carloads have been delivered to American homes. This is a gratifying tribute to the General Electric Refrigerator—a true achievement in electrical engineering. It is the worthy product of the Research Laboratories of the world's largest electrical manufacturer.

Nine factories working at top speed

The tremendous demand for these "years ahead" refrigerators has made it necessary to increase production again and again—just as rapidly as is consistent with General Electric standards of quality. Now nine factories are working at top speed to take care of the increasing volume of business.

Just as soon as each refrigerator has passed its many rigid tests, it is shipped to a waiting customer. We are assured by the factories that all orders now on file will be filled within the next few weeks

We suggest that you place your order now

If you are planning to purchase a refrigerator this summer, we strongly advise you to come in at once and place your order. Then you will be sure of having your refrigerator just as soon as you are ready for it.

The first 100,000 discriminating American women to choose this revolutionary refrigerator have been its best advertisers. They have pronounced it unusually quiet, economical in operation, easy to keep clean and worry-proof. It is their verdict which, in a large measure, is responsible for this hearty nation-wide acceptance!

GENERAL ELECTRIC
Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator is entirely different from all others. All its mechanism is safely stowed away, on top, in an airtight steel casing.

These refrigerators are unusually quiet, automatic, and they never need oiling. They are made and guaranteed by General Electric.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT WE WOMEN KNOW

WHEN a girl refuses to marry a man, his sorrow is always mitigated by the thought that she will never get another chance quite as good.

There are only two sorts of women who can live happidly with any man: the one who knows men through and through and cannot be fooled—and the one who doesn't know them at all, and can be completely fooled.

* * *

Next to jail and debt, the things that a man struggles hardest to keep out of are love, marriage and his evening clothes.

HELEN ROWLAND

"NEXT!"

Oh, you were ever light and vain,
And you were never true—
And loving you was always pain,
As every woman knew!

* * *

But I had scarcely cared a whit
That I had been so fond,
If my successor had not been
A feeble-minded blonde!

* * *

Funny how a man's religion will help him through all the great vicissitudes of life—and then go right back on him when he can't bully a little golf ball or make a radio behave.

* * *

Feminism: Insisting that a man shall look up to you, and then spending all your money on silk hosiery to draw his eyes—and his thoughts—in the other direction.

* * *

If Alice Longworth's marriage license sold for $21, think what a price one of Peggy Hopkins Joyce's old divorce decrees would bring!

* * *

In the mathematics of a woman's age, thirty-five plus five equals thirty-four—and don't you dare dispute it!

Panting for Breath May Mean Edema

DR. COPELAND

SWELLING or puffiness of a part of the body is a familiar symptom. It is given the name Oedema or Edema. Usually the condition of Edema is accompanied by an increased amount of fluid in the tissues. In a sense it is a kind of dropsy.

There are diseases of the lungs in which there is an escape of fluid from the blood vessels into the air cells themselves. It is about this I would speak today.

You will recall that the vital portions of the lungs are the minute air cells to which goes the air we breathe. The walls of these air cells contain tiny blood vessels. Both the walls of the cells and the blood vessel walls are very, very thin. They are so thin indeed that the oxygen of the air in the cells passes through the walls into the blood itself.

Sometimes, however, the process is reversed and the fluid of the blood escapes into the air cells. Then we have edema.

The first step in this process is congestion. There are some diseases of the lungs which are accompanied by marked increase in its blood supply. It is in such a disease that there is the possibility of leakage of fluid into the air cells.

Bright's disease, pneumonia, certain forms of heart disease, pregnancy, hardening of the arteries and convulsions produce congestion of the lungs. In any one of these we may have edema of the lungs as a symptom.

Were all the air cells of the lungs to be filled suddenly with fluid as a result of edema, death would be as immediate as drowning. You can see that the practical effect would be the same. In one case the fluid would find its way through the mouth into the lungs and so to the air cells. In complete edema the air cells would be filled from fluid supplied by the blood.

Fortunately, such serious cases are not common. Even if the attack is mild, however, the symptoms are severe.

First, there is a tightening in the chest and panting for breath. The difficulty in breathing increases. Coughing and frothy expectoration follow. The cough is constant and some blood may be expelled.

Naturally the difficult breathing is alarming to the victim. He becomes excited and is sure he will die. This increases the congestion and adds to the trouble.

Paleness, cold perspiration and weak pulse may be observed. In breathing the air passes through the fluid in the air cells and the bubbling may be heard. Noisy breathing is one of the symptoms.

The attack may pass off in a few hours and then disappear, only to recur. One authority tells of a patient who had an attack every week or two for two or three years.

The underlying condition should be given attention and every such case requires good medical care. It is important to consult the doctor

This is News—Two Prima Donnas Agree

TWO POPULAR STARS TALK ABOUT CLOTHES

New York, N. Y.—Mary Lawlor, star of "Good News," and Polly Walker, star of "The Merry Malones," may disagree, as prima donnas will, about the merits of their respective musical shows, but they agree on one point.

The well-dressed star, they both say, knows that the one way to keep stockings and frocks and underthings like new is with Lux.

"Lux is always in my dressing room," Polly Walker adds. "And I insist upon my maid's using only Lux for my show clothes and my own personal things, because I can't bear to lose a favorite gown or negligée through careless washing."

A recent survey showed that the producers of every musical show in New York specify Lux for the stockings and costumes of choruses, because they say washing with Lux keeps lovely filmy things new-looking twice as long as other methods.

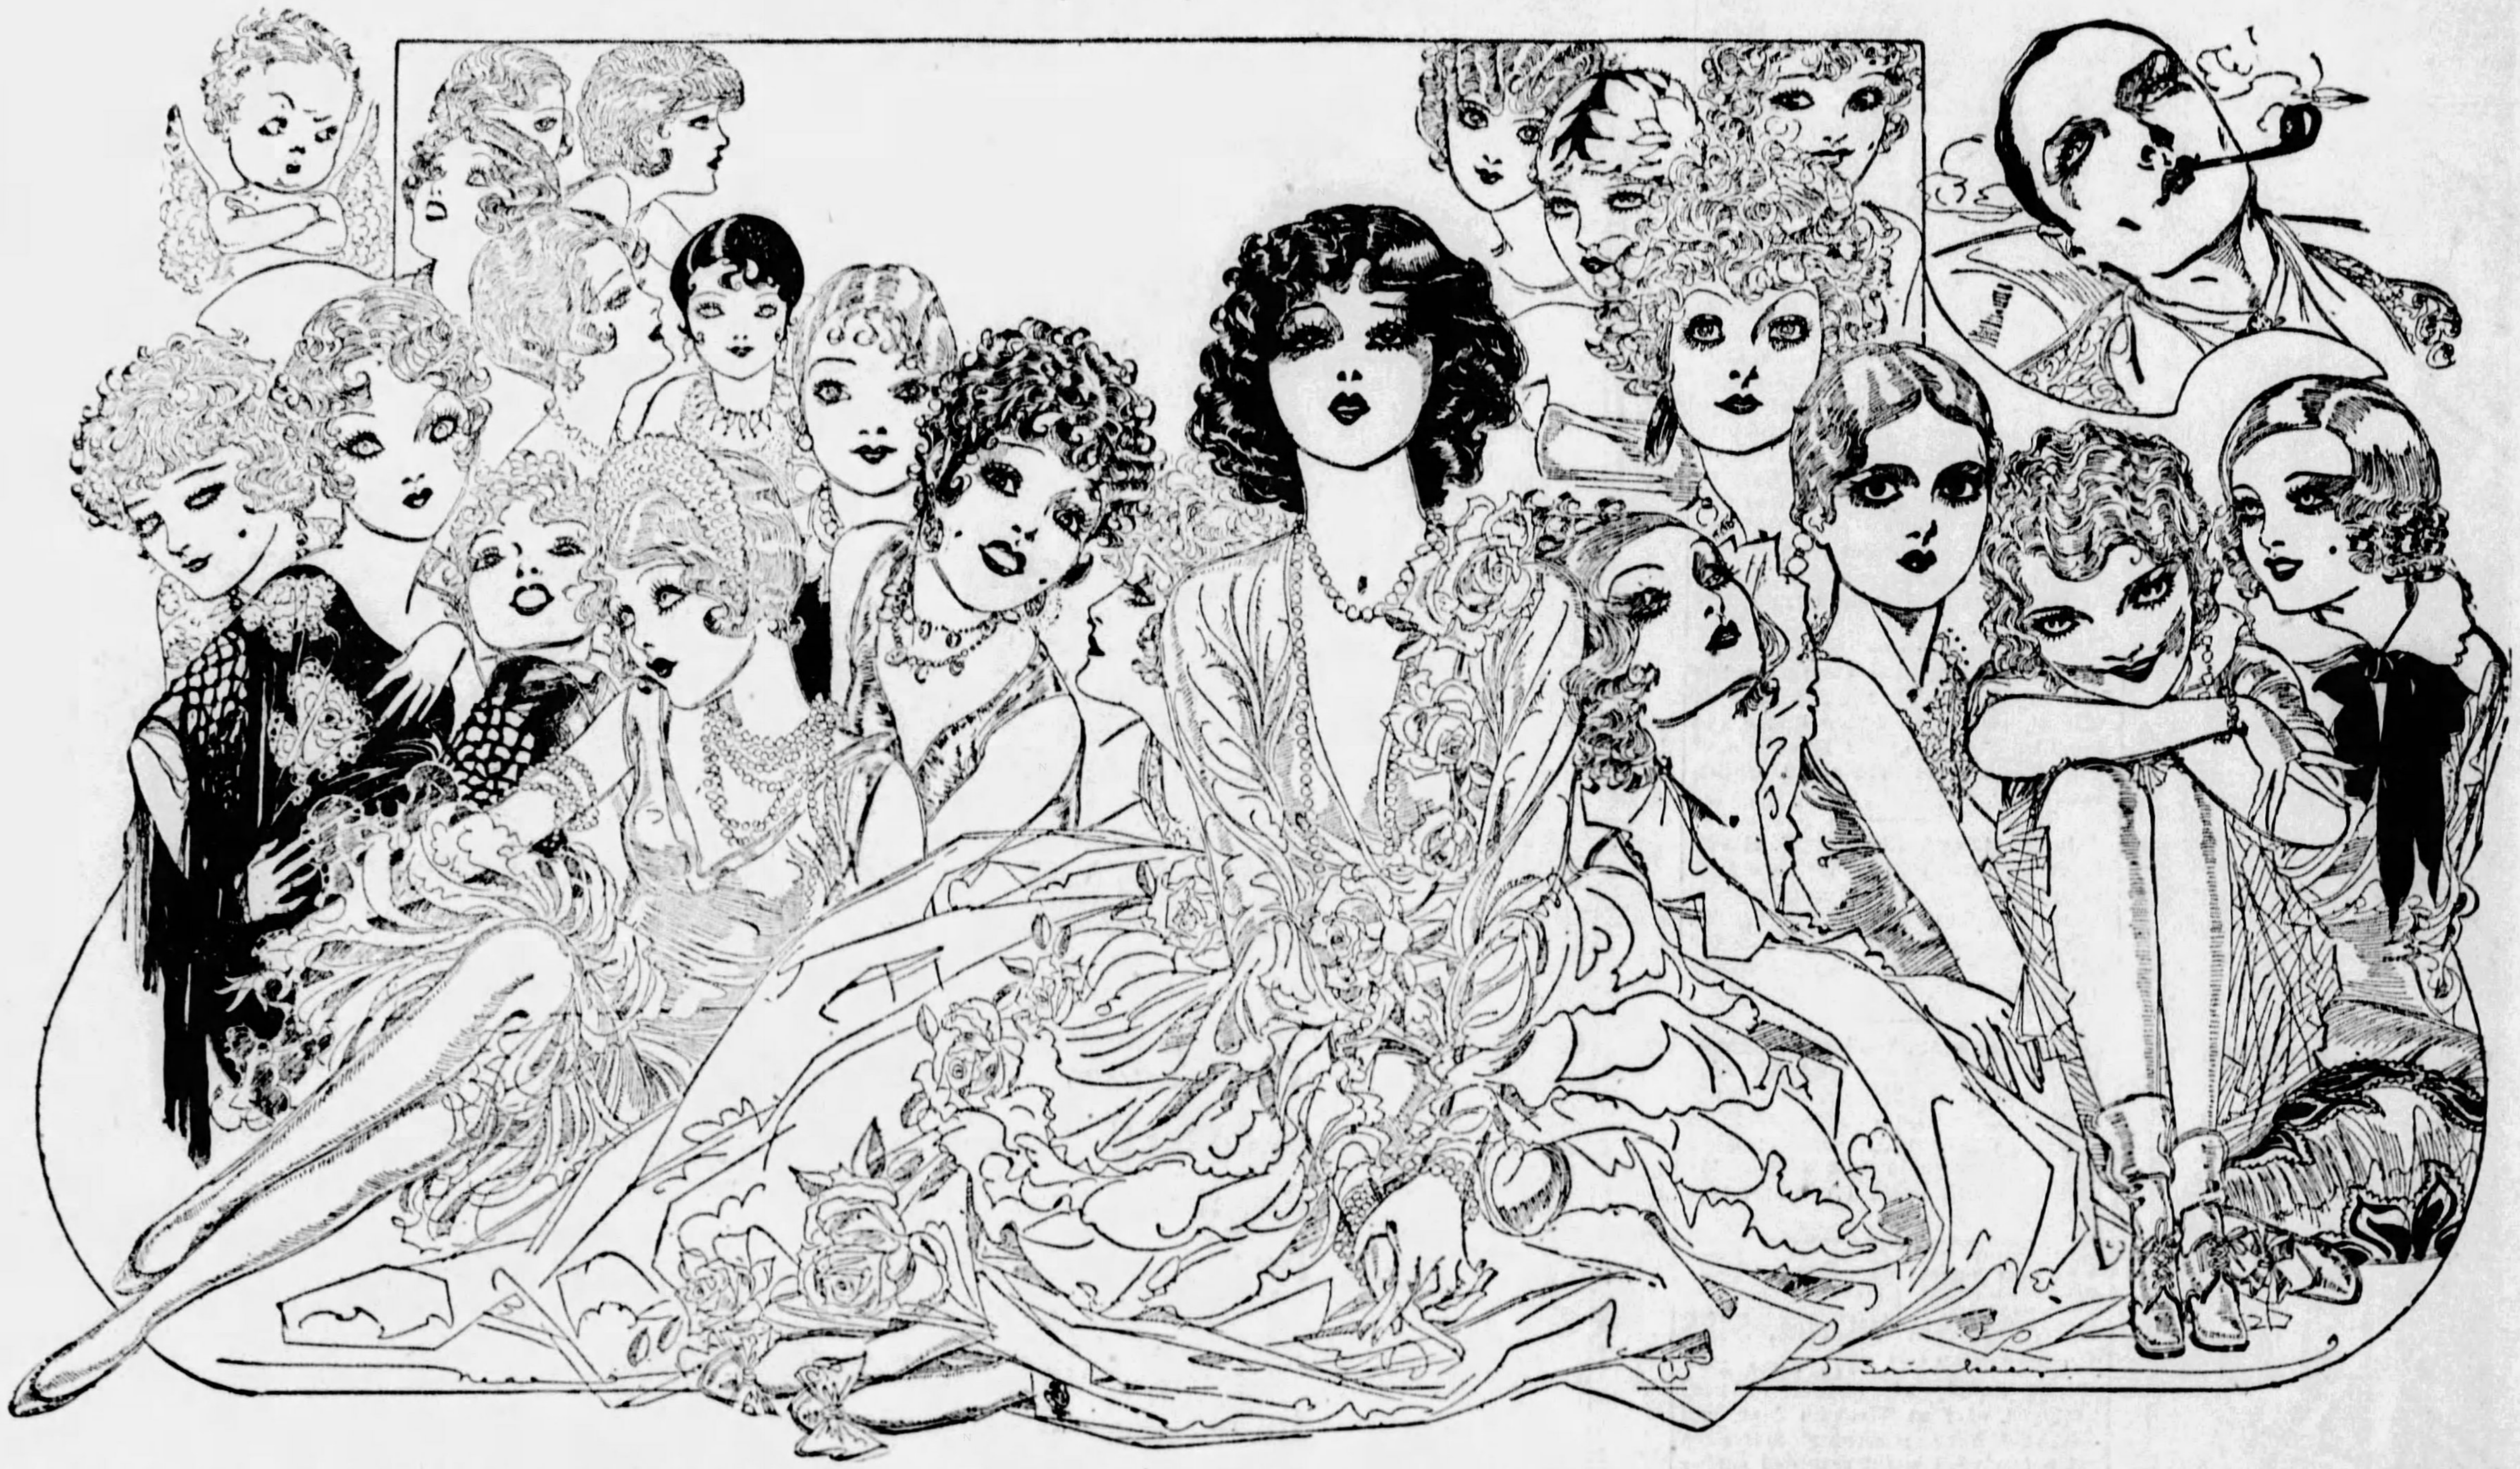
Lever Brothers Co., largest soap makers in the world and makers of Lux, take great pride in the savings in clothes and money made possible through the use of Lux.

The great movie studios also use Lux to get double wear from costumes. And department stores estimate that Lux has saved American women at least a billion dollars through double wear from fabrics.

"WHY BILL NEVER MARRIED"

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"—too many lovely women in the world—"



OLE DAN CUPID got tired on the highway one night. It was about time to fold his downy wings and go beddy-bye. And at just that moment when he remembered this, when he found no more quarry abroad, and was looking at the dusty soles of his pink feet to see if they were about worn through—they were so tired—he found himself near the country cottage of an old admirer of his.

So he turned in there for a snack by the fire, a drowsy talk, and a soft bed. There, as from the time he had first known him, he found his friend, Bill, still ALONE. No wife in a white frock by his side in the love-seat before the blaze. And ole Dan got in a dudgeon about this! He ruffled his wings and bent his feathers of eyebrows. But he waited until he had made his tummy of the rotundity of a handsome little watermelon with a chicken pie and a bottle of milk—you thought I was going to say claret, but you see Dan's never gotten over, though he is a gay dog, his taste his baby taste, for the ambrosial milk of the flocks on Mount Olympus—he waited until he was replete and his friend's pipe was lighted, and then he asked him why! WHY the aloneness.

"You are getting gray over the ears and old-maidenish in your ways, Bill," says he. "Why haven't you married? I've wounded you enough times, Venus knows. Were you never really in love? Was I mistook about hitting you?"

And Bill answered up, with his eyes on his smoke-wreaths, seeing dreams there. "I'm in love ALL OF THE TIME. I'm in love FOR GOOD. There's my trouble. You see, there aren't enough unlovable women in the world. There are too many lovely ones of too many different kinds! Seeing that I'm in love with them ALL, FOREVER—and seeing that I am naturally a faithful chap who believes in lovin' one woman 'til I die—you can see for yourself the lurking, outside role I have to choose. Women have gardened the world with the roses of Heaven, and because I love the perfume of the whole garden I just look at them over the fence and am faithful to them all, though I have not one. Last love, and first love, you are all in my heart. So I have no wife, Master Dan. I have not picked one rose for myself because of that unlucky combination of there being too many desirable girls in the world and of me being too faithful a fellow. The garden is bursting with Princess roses, and I believe in wearing but ONE in your button-hole. So there you are. I am honest. I wear none and look at them all!"

But by that time way-weary Dan had believed him, and was fast asleep.

NELL BRINKLEY.

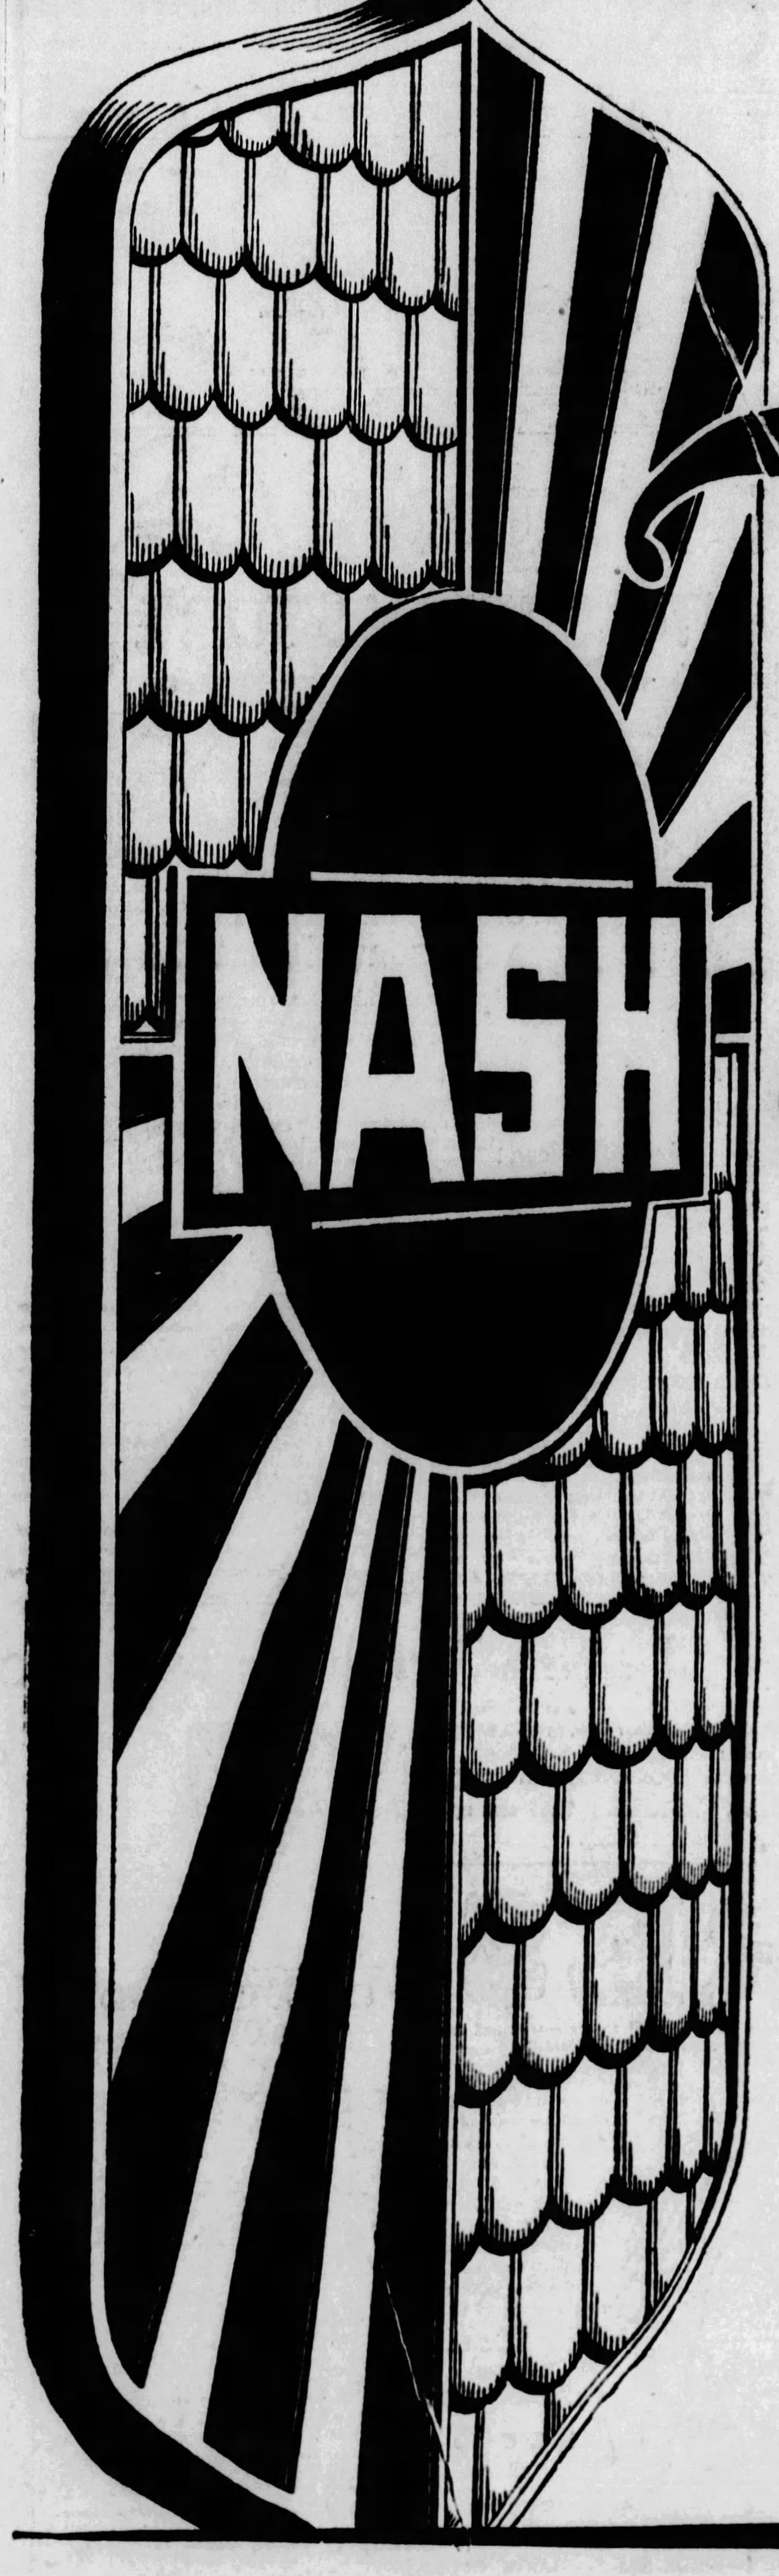
The Crest of the
New NASH
"400"



Today

NASH presents a
New and Finer Motor Car

New Twin Ignition Motor
New Salon Bodies

"The three new Nash '400' Series, which are being introduced everywhere today, achieve the ambition of my manufacturing career.

"They represent an entirely new type of motor car, priced moderately, but offering you all the beauty and quality and performance heretofore exclusive to very expensive automobiles.

"To create such a car we had to develop an entirely new type of design and invest over $2,500,000 in dies and machinery alone.

"Both the Salon bodies and the high compression motors which power these new models exemplify the most radically modern advancement in body craftsmanship and engineering.

"Naturally space precludes the full listing of all features but I do want to draw your attention to a number of the outstanding attractions such as:—

"—Twin ignition, high compression, Bohnalite aluminum alloy pistons with Invar-struts, 7-bearing crankshaft with hollowed crankpins, Bijur centralized chassis lubrication, Houdaille and Lovejoy shock absorbers, Biflex-Nash bumpers and bumperettes, chrome plating over nickel for all exterior metal ware, double-drop frame, one-piece Salon fenders and longer wheelbase lengths.

"This new-type engineering of the '400' motors makes them by far the best performing cars I have ever built.

"I don't think anyone will ever want to use all the speed and power they deliver.

"Equipment is absolutely complete at the factory list price and you need buy no extras except a spare tire.

"If my judgment is worth anything you will find it well worth while today to examine this new automobile development with the greatest care."

POLICEMAN HELD FOR EXTORTION

GETTING THE DOPE

"The Magpie," Evelyn Brent, shot by her underworld erstwhile sweetheart because she sides with law and order—and George Bancroft, the "two-gun" detective in "The Drag Net," playing this week at the Liberty Theater. "The Making of a Newspaper" is one of the most interesting news features presented.

CHARGED WITH "FIXING" AUTO CASES

Accused of having attempted to "fix" a case for a monetary consideration after having arrested an autoist, Patrolman Michael Feder, of Whitaker, is awaiting court trial today following a hearing on a charge of extortion before Alderman John J. Verona, of Wylie avenue, last night. The Pittsburgh Motor Club co-operated in the prosecution.

"It's a disgrace to the borough the way drivers have been fleeced," testified Mrs. Stella Cutnell, Republican county committee woman of the Third precinct of Whitaker, in appearing in behalf of Nicolo Marizzi, of 65 Millbridge street, Pittsburgh, from whom Feder was accused of having attempted to extort $25.

Miss Minnie Smoko of 460 Walnut street, Mt. Oliver, a sister of Mrs. Cutnell, and Miss Grace Cutnell, a daughter, who were in the car with Marazzi, testified against Feder.

Marazzi's arrest on a reckless driving charge, occurred Memorial Day after his machine had been struck by a car driven by George Zorn of Mt. Oliver. Marazzi was discharged by Burgess James Haynes of Whitaker.

Attorney Frank J. Zappala, who appeared on behalf of Marazzi, and the Pittsburgh Motor Club, declared that frequent reports of attempted extortion from motorists had been made in the Whitaker district since the beginning of the year. Feder has been on the police force since last January.

BEAUTY TO BE PICKED AT V. F. W. MARDI GRAS

The indoor mardi gras to be presented by the Allegheny County Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Duquesne Garden all next week, will be featured by a beauty pageant in which the winner will be chosen by the audience. Saturday at 11 o'clock the girls entering the pageant will meet at the Cameo Theater and be driven through the city. The winner will be awarded a $100 outfit and a trip to Conneaut Lake to enter the state beauty contest.

DONATE PARK PRIZE FUNDS

Five hundred dollars worth of prizes to be awarded winners of athletic events in the county parks July 4, will be purchased with funds supplied personally by the county commissioners.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern objected to an appropriation being made for prizes, saying that he did not believe the taxpayers should be charged with the item. He said that he approved the amount for prizes and offered to pay his share of the expense. The other commissioners also agreed to donate their third.

ESTRANGED WIFE SEEKS $125,000 ESTATE

THE CONSTANT FLAME

A Fair Maid Meets Love In Strange Surroundings

by WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Emily's Mother Reminds Her She Is as Good as Promised to Marty

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

Emily Day and Kitten are daughters of a worker in the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially elect of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter. Mary Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is devoted to her. Mrs. Frances Haiden, a wealthy interior decorator, takes an interest in her and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. She gets a job with Mrs. Haiden. Her father dies and Rossiter offers help, which her mother declines. Avis Rossiter's father threatens to disinherit her unless she changes her ways. Great preparations are being made for Avis Rossiter's marriage. Kingdon Coles invites Emily to go to the city to a show. Emily visits the newspaper plant while King writes his review of the play.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE started to say, "But I'm not working for the fun of it; I've a family to take care of!" She didn't say it. They came to the ferry just then, and she didn't remember to say it. Long afterward she wondered why she hadn't remembered.

CHAPTER XXVI.

AFTER that evening Emily felt different, someway, about Coles.

She doubted that she loved him. At least the thought of him sent no high, free note vibrating exultant in her heart as the thought of Kent had done.

But now she began to wonder if that singing joy might, after all, be quite real; if, instead, it might not be a dream; one of those nearly every woman must have with her first thought of love—those dreams which so seldom come true.

Agnes must have had some such experience when she fell in love with Steve Day. And it wasn't separation but fulfillment which took it from her. Hard that would be—harder than giving up the loved one—to see the dream fade and die at his hands.

Even Stella must have felt it, loving Skeets Bradley as she did. And life was killing that for her, too. Not with merciful slowness but by a violent blow. That, too, would be hard, to awaken so.

Her own lot was happier, she told herself, by it she also lost the loved one but the dream was hers, to have and to hold. Fragrant thing lockd up in her secret heart, it would remain always fresh, always fair.

But one could not live for a dream. Life had its problems and its demands. One must meet those as they came, courageously, taking for one's self whatever seemed happiness.

The glamour that had settled upon Coles the witching night in the city brightened as days went by. Such an aristocrat he had looked with everybody eager for a word from him: so clever he had seemed at his desk writing faster than she could think a thing that thousands would read.

Aristocratic—yes, he was that. Birth, no doubt, and breeding. Things she revered in spite of the pale ghost of class-antagonism which sometimes haunted her.

He made her feel she was doing him a great favor by allowing him to be in love with her. Not like Marty Nolan, who came with his fighting jaw out and said, "I'm going to marry you some day, Em." As if it were for him to say!

Exciting, to be Coles' wife! Different from the flat, monotonous days in Lyall. Nights of working about the house, going nowhere much save when Frances invited her.

There's be the theater every night, perhaps, and dinner in such gorgeous places as the Van Rex. And no doubt he'd have many friends like himself one would get to know, interesting and clever.

Of course she was not clever herself. But she always could listen and maybe they'd like her for that. Those she met at Frances' did. Emily was becoming an expert listener.

She would think of these things and then she would go and sit with Agnes a while, resolved to tell her something of Kingdon Coles. To see if she could not overcome prejudice enough so they might talk together happily.

But there never seemed a chance for this. Emily would begin, "Why not come with me some afternoon to see Frances, Muz? You'd like her friends."

"They'd be too grand for an old woman like me, dear," sighing. "I'm not one to leave my own." This with a hint of reproach.

"But they're not grand, darling, and it's nice to make new friends. Why, there's a young fellow comes there, Kingdon Coles, who writes on a newspaper. He's a fine boy. You'd love to hear him talk about this and that."

Little red spots sprang out on Agnes' cheek-bones; her eyes were bright suddenly. "You like this man, Emmy? You see him much?" Her voice was taut with alarm.

Emily might have told her then; she might have said, quickly, "I don't know whether I like him or not but I'm thinking of marrying him. Oh, I need your advice—be fair, Muz—tell me how you see it—"

But Agnes couldn't be fair. Shield Kitten, let her do anything. But not so much sympathy these last years for this older daughter. Agnes saw things as Steve had in his bitter days; she gave no thought to the change that had come in the very end when he warned Emily against his mistakes.

"You see this man often, Emmy?"

"He's only one who comes there."

"Well, I hope you'll not forget you're as good as promised to Marty."

Emily moved impatiently, said with the sweet lips straightened, "I'll not forget, Muz."

Agnes settled back, satisfied, but Emily went on thinking. "She's willing for me to marry Marty. She knows I don't love him—that I never will—and she thinks it right for me to marry him anyway.

"Well, if that's honorable, why isn't it more so for me to marry King, whom I like? Even not loving him, that's higher than this other. Not father's mistakes—I think he would wish this. Whatever Muz says I think he would want it this way—"

It occurred to her that she might marry King, and win Agnes over afterward. Agnes would be hurt, but only at first; when she saw how happy they'd be she would feel pleased. Meeting King and realizing how much finer he was than Marty would convince her. She would forgive then and take it in a nice way.

Perhaps Agnes even might come to the city to live with them. That would interest her, take her out of the rut.

And Kitten—why, it would end the problem of Kitten. With a husband to help manage the mutinous kid sister there'd be no more worry. Kitten would have to listen then.

So she almost settled it all in her mind. When King asked her the next time she would promise to marry him. And one day they would take a little motor trip somwhere, perhaps up the Boston Post road to Greenwich, and they would come back man and wife.

All very simple, rather sweet. Troubles disposed of then. She smiled at the ease of it.

Now she brought up a matter that long had been on her mind.

"Wouldn't it be nice for me to fix up the house, Muz? I've thought about it. I could get things at cost through Frances and do all the work myself."

"You want to make over the house, Emmy? You don't like it?"

(To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

They're the wives of delegates to the International Circulation Managers Association convention. While the "hubbies" attack one problem after another in circulation, the wives circulate about the city learning why Pittsburgh is the greatest city between two points. WIFE SUES FOR BIG ESTATE

Mrs. Gertrude Braun, 131 Hallock street, Mt. Washington, who at the age of 16 married August Braum, 70, Elizabeth street, and deserted him three months later, is fighting to gain her rights in a $125,000 estate.

This was revealed yesterday when Attorney Joseph M. Friedman, before Judge James B. Drew, Moore asked that certain mortgages Braum gave his son, Joseph M. Braum, be set aside.

Braum died about 18 months after the separation in 1925 and Mrs. Braun has since been married, her present husband being Albert E. Braun.

Attorney Friedman sometime ago presented a petition requesting the action of Braum on the mortgage question be set aside, but it was thrown out by Judge Moore. Attorney Friedman appealed and the case was reargued yesterday, with Attorney Franklin A. Ammon representing Mrs. Braun.

Judge Drew remarked from the bench that if the facts as presented in the case are correct, the plan to defeat the widow of her rights, is without parallel in the history of Pennsylvania law practice.

According to Attorney Friedman, Mrs. Braun, was persuaded by her parents to marry Braum. On the day of their marriage Braum transferred to his wife a mortgage for $6,500 and her parents live in the house on which this mortgage is held. Mrs. Braun recently sued to get possession, but the jury decided against her, as the understanding was that the parents were to keep the house as long as they lived.

According to Friedman, when the then Mrs. Braun left her husband, her maiden name being Gertrude Rohrbach, Braum within a few weeks time gave his son, Joseph eight mortgages and transferred interest to him in 19 others, the sole purpose, it being claimed being to defraud the wife of her interest in her husband's estate.

Judge Drew remarked at the conclusion of the hearing that the rights of the widow were not only apparently swept away, but that young Braum had got the property apparently to the detriment of the interests of Braum's other children. Decision will be rendered later.

H. H. Kauffmann, poultry specialist at Pennsylvania State College, will give a demonstration on caponizing on Saturday, June 23, at 10 a. m. at the Allegheny County Home, Woodville. All poultrymen interested in this important phase of their industry are invited.

FLOOD HITS TOWN; ALL FLEE

BRANSON, Mo., June 21.—(AP.)—A cloudburst late last night flooded White River and Lake Taneycomo near Hollister and several houses were reported swept from their foundations.

The river rose two feet within an hour.

The last message received here from the telephone operator at Hollister said that water had reached the second floor of the exchange and the occupants were fleeing. Meager reports of the destruction came over the telephone wires before service was indefinitely suspended.

FLOOD HITS W. VA.

SPENCER, W. Va., June 21.—(AP.)—Flood waters of Spring Creek blocked railroad and bus traffic south of Spencer, washed away a school house and forced occupants to vacate several homes on the creek's banks.

The rising waters, caused by a heavy rain, blocked train service on the Ravenswood, Spencer and Glenville branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad throughout the day and halted motor bus and automobile traffic on the Charleston-Spencer road.

The only serious property damage reported was that which resulted when the waters washed away a small school building known as the Stainaker school.

Lowlands in the district, including the high school athletic field, were completely submerged and occupants of homes near the creek vacated their houses.

LIGHTNING BOLT KILLS 13 CATTLE AT BAYARD

CUMBERLAND, Md., June 21.—Thirteen of a herd of 20 cattle belonging to George Harvey, near Bayard, were killed by a single bolt of lightning during a storm late yesterday.

Auto-Bus Plunges Into Wheeling Creek

EIGHT HURT, ONE FROM DORMONT

WHEELING, W. Va., June 21.—(AP.)—Eight persons were injured, two seriously, when a Wheeling to Washington (Pa.) bus plunged over a 12-foot retaining wall into Wheeling creek at Triadelphia, a suburb, late yesterday.

Those injured were:

C. F. HIGGINS, 77, Wheeling, crushed ribs; in hospital here.

MISS DOROTHY STOLL, 17, Washington, Pa., fractured ribs, broken arm and lacerations; in hospital.

W. P. MATTHEWS, Madison, Wis., severe scalp wounds and probable internal injuries; under care of physicians.

WALTER GRUNINGER, New York City, bruised and cut.

MRS. WALTER GRUNINGER, New York City, bruised and cut.

H. D. M'GINNIS, Monongahela, Pa., hand crushed.

B. NORWITZ, Philadelphia, sprained shoulder.

D. L. DONAHUE, Dormont, Pa., bruises and cuts.

The driver of the bus, Charles Gordon, 25, who with four others escaped injury, was exonerated of blame following an investigation by county officials and representatives of the bus company.

The accident occurred at a curve when the steering knuckle broke, officials of the Washington Transportation Company, owners of the bus, said. The heavy vehicle landed in the semi-dry bed of the stream, the force of the fall breaking open the rear end of the bus, through which aperture the injured were taken out.

The bus carried 12 passengers.

Hospital attaches regarded the condition of Higgins as grave, but said the others would recover.

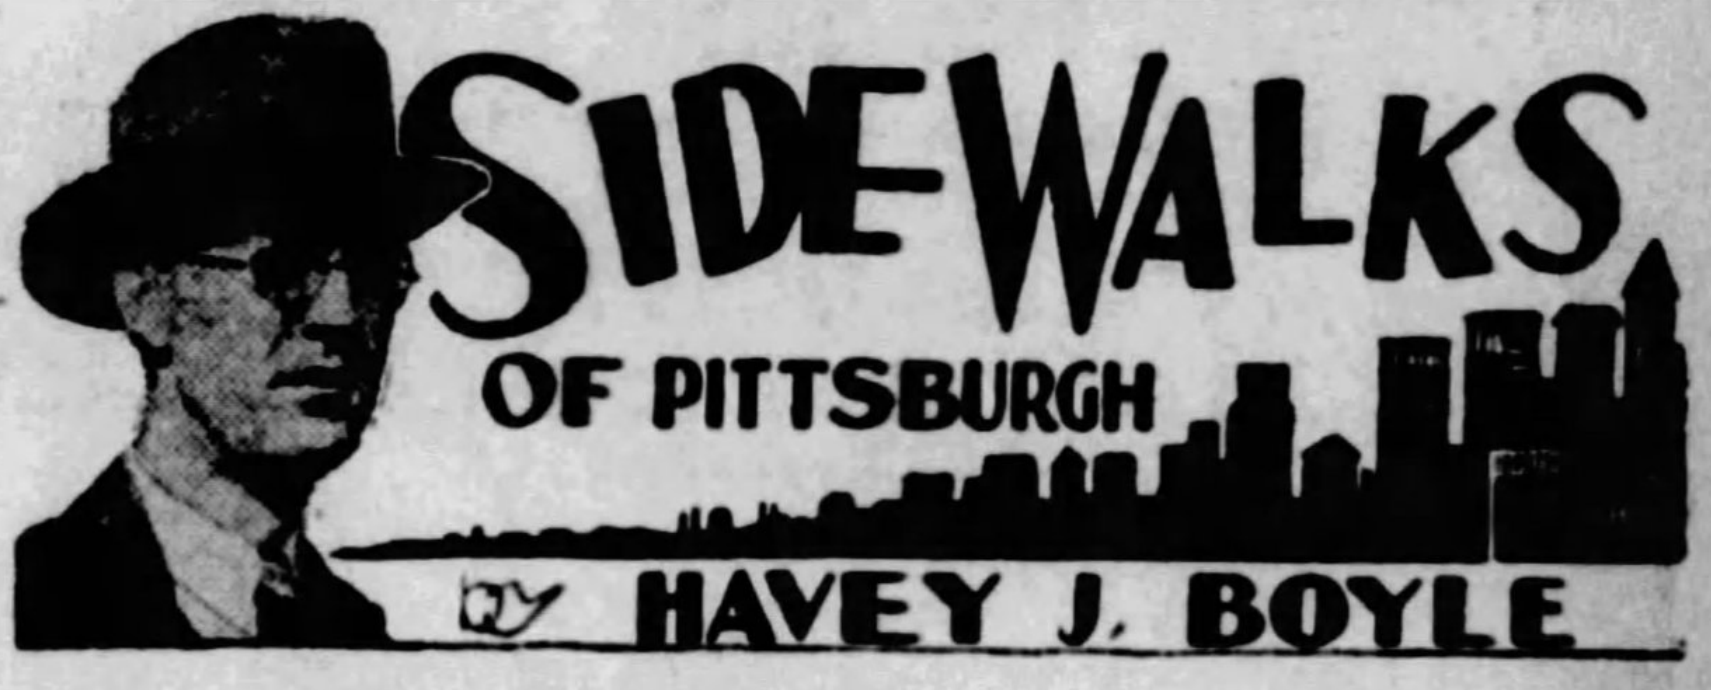
Killed

MRS. MARGARET GOFF

Struck by a B. & O. train as she was returning home from a visit with friends, Mrs. Margaret Goff, 62, 7522 Center street, Swissvale, died before aid could be given at a hospital.

THIEVES LOOT AUTO OF CHICAGO TOURIST

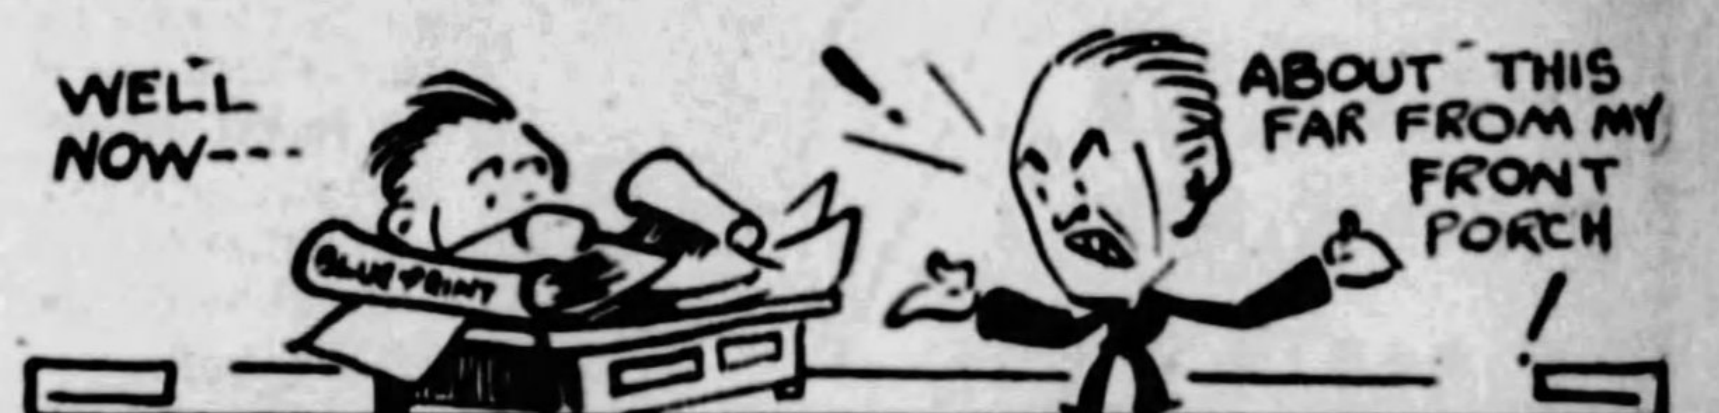
Two leather suit cases containing wearing apparel valued at $400 were stolen from the automobile of Louis Pisano, of Chicago, while the car was parked in Liberty avenue, near Tenth street, last night.



SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

VISITED the hearings which are held every Monday morning in the City-County Building by the city zoning board. This board works under the ordinance which created it to supervise the building restrictions set forth in the ordinance. The board is composed of W. M. Jacoby, chairman; J. W. Cree, Jr., and W. C. Rice. Before the board appear architects, contractors, home builders, and all classes of citizenry. On the day we were in it seemed to be "Garage Day" for many of the petitioners either wanted to build a garage or didn't want their neighbors to build one. The duties of the board include seeing that your property will not be injured by a rash plan of a neighbor who, perhaps, wants to toss up a cow shed close to your front porch.



WELL NOW---
BLUE PRINT
ABOUT THIS FAR FROM MY FRONT PORCH

From listening to various cases we gathered it is the policy of the board to pass on no case until the property is viewed and, of course, to give a hearing to all parties concerned before any ruling is made.

Blue-prints are so heavily scattered on the table that once the chairman had a difficult time finding his gavel. The way to get the chairman to rap his gavel, we found, is to pass some innocent remark to an architect named Charley Geisler. For instance, when Charley came into the room, we said: "Hello Charley, how's the foot?" (Charley has a sore foot—the right one.) Charley said: "Oh, not so bad." And then the chairman of the zoning commission rapped his gavel for silence.

A FEW of the witnesses were ladies, who nearly always make interesting witnesses. A board member says: "Now your lot faces on Smith street and you want this garage to face on Jones street, which, my dear madam, will disturb the family next door." The lady replies: "I don't see how it will annoy my neighbor at all. We paid a good deal of money for the machine. It has a good motor and is very good on the hills." "But that has so little to do with this garage problem?" "I'm coming to that, presently," says the lady, and then she begins telling the board about how Uncle Bill in West Virginia sized up the garage situation and how he viewed the situation here in Pittsburgh.

Before this ordinance was passed by the city fathers, Pittsburghers, ambitious to own a nice home, always ran the risk of expending $15,000 or $20,000 for a home only to have its value decreased because someone came along and put up a house that was worth $3,000 or $4,000 and built it such a way that abutting property was lessened in value.

ONE of the petitioners wanted to construct a three-story building on a certain street, which would have blocked off light and air from neighboring houses. His petition was denied with the explanation that the kids on both sides of his proposed building were entitled to their heritage of sunlight and fresh air. In this case the petitioner, being quite human, was a little selfish and, having been refused what he first proposed, then sought a compromise. "Will you give me 10 feet then?" he asked. "Not an inch," said Mr. Cree. "Not an inch," echoed Mr. Jacoby and Mr. Rice.

It struck us then, that if the time ever comes, when it will be fitting and proper to write and dedicate a song to the zoning board the title should be: "Not a Yard, Not a Foot, Not an Inch, Not Even a Red Whisker."

* * *

That the board is always in disagreement with what is sought, of course, is not the true picture. Most of the requests, coming within the letter and spirit of the law, are granted, and with little red tape, hardly an inch, in fact.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

FOUR INCHES OF LAND

By Louise Peple Armstrong

"A BARBED-WIRE fence," said old Mr. Carney, and he spat viciously into the cheerful fire Dolly Winston had made in the living-room grate because the early summer night was chilly. "I told him before he put it up not to go an inch over my farm. A young upstart! I'll have the law on him!"

Tom Winston looked very grave. "You say you had a surveyor mark the line 18 years ago?" he asked.

The old man thrust out his lower jaw, so that his pointed beard looked like an angry exclamation point. "I certainly did! For I'd had words with Sidney Lawton's pa over that boundary line.

"But, daddy, the Lowtons were early settlers here in colonial days," the sweet voice of Sara Carney interrupted them. "His ancestors did get the grant from King Charles II, and Sidney Lawton has the original map of the place, with drawings of tiny trees, houses and rivers on it, and—"

"I don't need you to tell me anything about those Lawtons and their maps, Sara," the father said. "You don't know the family as I know 'em, and I don't care that you ever shall. Remember that, my girl."

"Then you want to enter suit against young Sidney Lawton for putting up a fence four inches in your land?" Tom asked in a businesslike manner.

"That's the idea, absolutely," said old Mr. Carney, grinning through his beard as if he relished the thought.

"But, Daddy, what's four inches of farm land amount to? Why be no niggardly with a neighbor?" expostulated Sara Carney.

Her father, driven to the limit of exasperation at her attitude, turned upon the girl with a savage snarl. "A shame that a daughter of mine should take a stand against her own flesh and blood for a Lawton!" he cried. "You know mighty well it ain't the four inches of land, it's the principle of the thing. We'll see whether a good American survey don't hold in a court of law over an old English map with crazy rivers and trees on it!"

For fully half an hour after Tom's client and his daughter had departed, the young lawyer sat in a mood of deep reflection. "He's terribly sore over that fence," he said at length to his wife. "And he told me he was prepared to spend any amount of money to put young Lawton in his place. I think there's more involved in this than four inches of good Virginia soil."

"There is," agreed his little wife, nodding her golden curls. "There's jealousy, deep-rooted, on old Carney's part—jealousy of a proud family of pioneers who have held their lands from son to son for years. He's the upstart here, not young Sidney Lawton. I wish the affair might be amicably settled."

"Not a chance in the world of its being amicably settled," her husband assured her. "He's started a fight to the finish, and either way it means a good fee."

"You're becoming disgustingly mercenary," Dolly objected. "And Sara's a lovely, sweet girl," she added irrevalently.

When Tom had left for the office the next morning she pondered over his new case. "A shame," she said aloud, as she dusted the mahogany furniture and arranged a bowl of yellow roses on the center table. "Poor Sara! I wonder Sid Lawton doesn't do something besides put up barbed-wire fences."

She was out in the kitchen hulling strawberries for jam when a timid knock came on the back door. "Why, Sara," she exclaimed as she opened it to admit the tall, graceful girl with the dark, unhappy eyes. "Come right in, Dear."

"I want to talk to you, Mrs. Winston. You seem to understand how I feel—about this lawsuit. Please let me help you. I'm able to talk better when my hands are occupied."

"I'm miserable," she burst out after a long silence. "Daddy's been waiting for years to get a chance to pick on Sidney Lawton."

"If I were you," advised Dolly, "I'd ask Sidney to move that fence."

"I wouldn't think of asking him to do such a thing," said Sara.

Her firm little chin set aggressively, reminding Dolly of the bearded old father who yesterday had spoken such harsh, uncompromising words. The same foolish family pride, only now it was pitted against itself in the persons of father and daughter. Neither, she felt instinctively, would yield an inch. Sara would break her heart first—her father was prepared to spend an enormous sum in a court of law, fighting a neighbor over four inches of land.

"Go home and think it over, child," said Dolly Winston kindly, but feeling hopeless as she spoke. "I know you're in love with Sidney Lawton. He's a fine young man, and you'd be very happy together I'm sure—"

"I'd marry him if he fights father in the courts," said Sara bitterly.

That afternoon Dolly and Tom drove along the western highway beyond the town. They passed a field of new corn beginning to sprout, then a rolling meadow, green with the first touch of summer. Red cows grazed peacefully there, and along the roadway was a new barbed-wire fence that was held up by stout cedar poles. Presently they came to the end of the meadow, and Tom stopped the car and surveyed the row of new-stripped poles that march like soldiers along its edge and disappeared over the hill, holding the taut wire that glistened new in the sunlight.

"That's the fence they're squabbling over," said Tom casually as he lit a cigaret. "And there's Sid Lawton now, walking across the fields."

A tall, kaki-clad figure strolled in their direction. Sidney Lawton reached the fence and rested his tanned arms on the top wire. "Mr. Winston," he exclaimed. "I hear you've been retained to force me into cutting off a bit of my father's land and giving it to old man Carney!"

Tom flushed angrily, but Dolly tugged at his arm.

"Sara's very sad about it," she observed. "What a pity to make her so unhappy!"

Now it was Lawton's turn to flush. Tom Winston's jaw dropped and he turned to little wife in amazed indignation. "Keep still, Dolly," he whispered fiercely. "I won't have you meddling like this!"

"Oh, well," retorted Dolly stubbornly, "I do think it's beastly of you, Sid Lawton, not to move the fence back those four inches for Sara's sake."

Then to Tom's amazement Sidney Lawton laughed. His laughter had a happy ring, and his eyes glinted in an explicable manner. "Thanks, Mrs. Winston," he said. "It's a good idea, but it won't be necessary now. I'll always remember you suggested it, because you thought of Sara's happiness before your husband's business. I guess that's sincerity and neighborliness! As to the suit," he added, turning to Tom, "it'll be called off when Sara's father knows we motored down to Richmond this afternoon and were married there. Sara was disappointed at not having a real church wedding, poor girl—but that was the best we could do under the circumstances. And I don't suppose her father will mind her standing up for the four inches of our land! You see, she will have an everlasting interest in said four inches."

"Oh, I'm so glad," cried Dolly, clapping her hands at the sight of Sara's joyous face as she came down the hill toward them, walking over her husband's meadowland.

And Tom Winston grinned as he shook Sidney Lawton's hand and said: "My wife's such an advocate of peace and happiness, I'm afraid I'll have to adopt another profession in order to make a living!"

WITHOUT this handicap, there returns the very natural confidence, joy and cherished pride of possessing a clear skin.

Men and women both justly covet admiration, and you can expect such satisfaction only if you are happy in a clear, unblemished skin.

The sure way to reach this state is through the blood.

Red blood cells are Nature's elements for building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

TWO STOLEN IDOLS

MYSTERY! THRILLS! ADVENTURE! LOVE!!!

by FRANK L. PACKARD

Verna Refuses to Give The Idol Up to Bob, Who Searches for It

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of Tom Kingsley is picked up by Capt. "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, off Singapore. Tom's brother, Robert, also an old "sea dog," is notified of the death and receives articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols. Robert Kingsley has good reason to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy, has returned after 30 years to seek vengeance. The Idols are stolen and Young Bob starts out to recover them. After many adventures Bob and Verna Lyle are both prisoners at Richardson's plantation. The Malay whom Bob had rescued plans Verna's and Bob's escape. Bob, still bound, is carried to safety by the Malay. Bob plans to leave Verna with friends in Kalawa.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

HIS hands gripped tighter on the rail. He meant to be unhampered now, free to play his own game in his own way in Singapore. Every last one of them! He could see his father now in the living room at Patua, as the old man had sat there that night helpless in a wheel chair, his face haggard with grief and fury.

He could hear now the story of Hsi Yan being told again. He had promised then to "get" them all—and he would! Or go under, himself! Well, that might happen—but it would be the only reason why he would fail! And he had now even an added incentive to urge him on, and to deny failure at any cost. Verna! The ultimate result, were he arrested on her charge, gave him no concern whatever in so far being convicted of her brother's murder went. But it would mean that his hands would be hopelessly tied for a time. No one, in the full light of what had happened at Kalawa and later at Patua, would believe anything but what was the actual truth—no one except Verna. Verna, though, would cling to the belief that he was guilty because, in her heart, she fully believed she had as good as seen him strike the blow that had killed her brother. There was only one way ever to convince her of his innocenc—and her verdict was the only one he cared about. Once those guilty of the attack on Kalawa were discovered and trapped and Chen-shu was not only proved to be linked up with them, but was shown indeed to be one of their leaders, it would follow almost as a corollary that Colonel Lyle's murder on the Monotah lay at the same door.

Incentive? Oh, yes, he had incentive enough and to spare! His lips tightened. Let the police handle the whole thing? He had thought of that. It was the road to failure. The police might get Chen-shu, on his, Bob Kingsley's information — but the others, never. The others would scatter at the first hint of danger, and the inscrutable East would swallow them up. He had a thousand chances where the police had one. The vermin he wanted to unearth would not hesitate an instant at joining issue with one man who was so simple a fool as both to invite his own destruction and hand them on a platter, as the trite saying had it, the one thing for whose possession they had already committed two murders. The two ivory idols! Chen-shu had one; he, Bob, had, or rather, would have, the other. It would not take them long to come nosing at the bait, and then—

CHAPTER XXXV.

HE swung sharply away from the rail, and walked quickly across the deck to where Verna had just appeared from the cabin companionway. He touched his cap—and was conscious that he did it awkwardly.

She eyed him coldly.

"Kafan said I was going ashore and that you wanted to speak to me," she said in a level voice. "I did not know we were so near Singapore—nor does this look like Singapore to me."

"It's not," he answered. "It's a place called Kalawa."

"Oh!" Her eyes swept the shoreline. "I have always understood from Kafan, though there was no reason why I should have believed him, that I was to be taken to Singapore."

"Yes," Bob Kingsley nodded. "That was my first intention, but——"

"But on second thought you decided it would be unwise," she interrupted caustically. "I wondered at it myself! I would have denounced you there at once to the police."

"I knew it," he said—and smiled in an effort to break down her guard. "To be perfectly frank, that is one of the reasons why I am not taking you to Singapore."

"I will do the same thing here!" she told him instantly.

"I know that, too"—he was still smiling—"but Kalawa is a very small place, and there aren't any police here."

She stared at him a moment, biting at her lip.

"I see!" she cried furiously. "Of course! But even in Kalawa I could still tell my story if I were left free to do so, and even from Kalawa it would not take long for that story to spread. So I shall not of course be permitted to tell that story—where it would do you any harm. Who is to be my next jailer, then—in Kalawa?"

"There will be no jail or jailer," he said quietly. "You will be the guest of some old friends of mine for a little time."

"Friends! Of course!" Her eyes blazed disdainfully. "And do you think I will go peacefully to these friends of yours?"

"I should have thought you would have welcomed any change, that would rid you of me," he returned, a sudden bitterness in his voice. "But perhaps you did not understand that I would not remain in Kalawa? As soon as I have put you ashore, I am going on with the Alita to Singapore."

She did not answer.

Bob Kingsley turned away for an instant. He was suddenly ill at ease. He did not like what he had to say and do next. She would make a scene, of course. And he would be more the blackguard, more the callous, cold-blooded brigand than ever in her eyes. Well, the sooner it was over the better.

"Miss Lyle," he said gravely, "I—what I am going to ask from you now is, whether you believe it or not, for your own good. Before you leave the Alita you must give me that ivory god you've got."

She drew sharply back from him. Her hands clenched tightly at her sides.

"Must?" she challenged through tight lips.

"Yes," he said. "I am afraid I have put it bluntly; that I have startled you."

"Oh, no—far from that!" she retorted fircely. "I have expected this all along. It is what you have been after all the time—the reason why you killed my brother. My only wonder has been that since the night on the beach when you asked for it, you have said nothing about it again until now. You perhaps have your reasons, but my answer is the same now as then. You shall not have it! There is no power on earth that can make me give it to you!"

"I remember you answer, and the reason you gave—that it would help to hang me," he said slowly; "but I had hoped that the respect with which you have been treated during the days you have been aboard here would have caused you to relent a little, and that you would have come to see things in a somewhat different light. For instance, you thought it was Richardson who tried to prevent my escape from Aoru, and who was trying to rescue you in that fight at the cliff. You have talked a great deal with Kafan since then, and surely you must realize now that, instead of Richardson, it was the five Chinese I told you about on the beach that night of the shipwreck who were after us, and after you specifically, on account of that ivory god. Kafan was on the Monotah, and he knew something of what happened there. He was in the boat with the Chinamen and myself on the way in from the ship, and it was Kafan whom I sent to find the Alita. He has told you all of these things."

"Oh, yes," she answered unyieldingly. "Kafan has told me that—and a great deal more. He has made you out a veritable hero, and, according to him, you have risked your life several times for me; but Kafan is your mouthpiece, and I can hardly be expected to credit any tales that your men repeat to me like parrots, when I know well enough they emanate from you! I have never seen any of these mythical Chinamen. I did not see them outside my stateroom door when my brother was murdered—I saw only you. I did not see them on the beach when you landed. I did not see them when all of us, the survivors, in broad daylight, reached Aoru."

"I am sorry,' he said simply. "Nevertheless it is only the truth. Your life wouldn't be worth a farthing with that idol in your possession if they could get their hands on you. That is why you were—shall we say—kidnaped in Aoru? That is another reason why you are not going to Singapore where you would be in danger; and, finally, that is one of the reasons why you are going to transfer it to me before you go ashore here at Kalawa. In other words"—he smiled faintly—"for your own sake you are going to fade out of the picture."

She studied him for a moment, her head high, her hands still clenched.

"Am I, indeed?" she exclaimed, icily. "We will see! For that matter, how do you know I have still got the idol? I could have disposed of it in Aoru, or easily destroyed it in the 10 days I have had since then."

Bob Kingsley shook his head.

Junior Disappears, Causing a Near-Panic

ELEANOR LINCOLN'S temper is quick and imperious. But she has been trained to keep it in check. Both these things were patent to me when her face, which had crimsoned at my rebuke, came back to its normal color and her arrogantly lifted head bent toward me with a charming gesture of apology.

"I am afraid I am terrible stupid," she said. "But it is quite a long time since I have been in the schoolroom."

Not so long as she wished me to believe, I told myself, for I was sure that the girl could not count many more years than Mary Harrison's scant 17. But in worldly knowledge she was far ahead of Dicky's lovely young niece.

"It is always hard to take up a routine study when one has been out of it for some time," I acquiesced. "But I am sure that by next Tuesday you will have your work well in hand."

"I'll try not to disappoint you," she said simply, charmingly, and a few minutes later Lillian and I upon the veranda were watching her drive out of the yard.

"Well!" Lillian turned to me with mirthful eyes. "How's the plan for stumping the young woman with work coming on?"

"It depends upon the point of view," I said with an uneasy little laugh. "She certainly was not well prepared today—and—I told her we'd have no more lessons until next Tuesday."

"Made her feel as if falling down on the lessons was the reason for your decision?"

"Yes."

"Good little Machiavelli," she said.

I flushed hotly. "I don't—" I began, but she interrupted me ruthlessly.

"Oh, yes, you do understand," she said. "In the first place, you've been the wife of a temperamental artist long enough to know that nothing must be permitted to interfere with his work once he has it planned out. Therefore as the Lincoln damsel has changed her mind and consented to pose for him, it is up to you to keep the time free for him if it is possible for you to do so. So like a dutiful spouse you've left Dicky a clear field for the week.

"In the second place," she went on, smiling mischievously at me, while I stared at her, wondering not for the first time at her uncanny ability to read my thoughts, "you've put the young woman in her proper place as a laggard, inattentive pupil, something which will be of great benefit to you when you resume lessons.

"In the third place, you'll be better able to keep Dicky from exploding over your tutoring of the girl if he doesn't have the lessons flaunted in his face every day, and in the fourth place—I forget just what was my fourthly, but it's as good as the others. Therefore, I say again that you're a good little Machiavelli and have done a good stroke of business. What on earth!"

We rose to our feet abruptly at a howl—it could be called nothing else—from the direction of the kitchen.

"Oh, Meesis Graham," she shrieked. "Junior, he gone. Dose Tranvanian devils dey got heem!"

Red Letter Days

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For very special occasions, "when one simply must look her best," the skin needs freshening and toning. And a "facial" comes to the rescue.

Some women look young and carefully groomed for a night or two. Then their skin gradually lapses back into muddy, dull hue . . . until another important event.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

You can give your face the firm, flawless tone of youth. You should keep it in this condition, not only for important engagements but every day, because you're just as closely scrutinized day in and day out.

This is the simple treatment I have found really necessary for youthful skin:

Apply my White Youth Clay once a week, twice a month or as often as your skin requires. After washing it off you will feel the pleasant sensation of a real astringent. The clay rids your skin of blackheads and similar blemishes, gently purging the pores of their accumulated impurities which sometimes sink so deep, especially in oily skins.

My White Youth Clay is the only dainty, agreeable clay pack I know. You can get it at any toilet counter.

BOBBY JONES and WALTER HAGEN Indorse SUN-TELE Junior Golf Tourney

BOBBY JONES

OLYMPIA FIELDS, Ill., June 21.—Bobby Jones, national amateur golf champion, and Walter Hagen, British open and national professional champion, competing in the National Open Championship Tournament here, today indorsed the junior and sub-junior golf championship tournament of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for the William Randolph Hearst trophy, authorizing the following statements:

By BOBBY JONES,
National Amateur Champion.

IN MY humble opinion, the best way to develop golfers is through the medium of tournament play. This is especially the case with the youngsters and to them we must look for replacements as the older competitors pass from the picture. The promotion of a tournament for kids is a great idea.

By WALTER HAGEN,
British Open and National Professional Champion.

YOUR tournament for boys is a fine idea. Nothing creates more interest among boys than competitions which are well organized and conducted and given due publicity in the newspapers. The Sun-Telegraph can do much for the boys and is to be congratulated on its initiative in sponsoring such a competition.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Bradley, Old Third Base King, Looks Over Greensburg Shortstop —— War Tax on Baseball Tickets To Be Abolished June 29—Scale To Follow Not Yet Worked Out by Pittsburgh Club.

BASEBALL memories of two decades ago and more were stirred in this city and Greensburg Tuesday night by the appearance of a figure that once ranked with the most prominent and famous in the baseball world.

Bill Bradley.

It was that of Bill Bradley, formerly of the Cleveland team, and between whom and Jimmy Collins, former Red-sox star, lies the distinction of having been the greatest third baseman of all time.

Bradley is now a scout for the Cleveland club, and might have got by unobserved if he had not been encountered by D. E. Benjamin, the lynx-eyed staff photographer of The Sun-Tele.

AT THAT, Bradley was not making any secret of his visit and frankly told "Benny" that he was going to Greensburg to look over Bill Codie, shortstop of the Greensburg team who had been tipped off to him as having the makings of a major leaguer.

WHAT Bradley's conclusions were after taking a slant at the Greensburg boy have not been revealed, but his recommendations one way or the other are certain to bring the Cleveland club to a final decision, as Bill has shown such splendid judgment in all cases that he is ranked as one of the best scouts in the country.

BRADLEY'S name will live always in baseball history. He joined the Chicago Nationals in 1899, played with them also in 1900, jumped to the Cleveland Americans in 1901 and starred for Cleveland until the end of the season of 1910. He became such a great third baseman that it was considered something in the nature of a toss-up between him and Collins as the greatest third baseman in baseball history.

That may have held good up to the end of the careers of Bradley and Collins, and some fans of that period may still hold the same view, but it would be hard to convince any modern game-goer that there is or ever was quite as good a third baseman as Pie Traynor.

John Miljus.

JOHN MILJUS, Lawrenceville native and Pirate chucker, is a warm admirer of Burleigh Grimes.

Discussing the veteran spitter who has been the mainstay of the Buccaneer staff to date, Miljus told Ed Murphy: "Burleigh doesn't care what happens. He has been pitching quite some time, but he's far from being through. When the time comes for him to step aside for a younger man there will be something he will have and that's his courage. He'll never lose that. We'll be up in the race long before it's over. Unfavorable weather has hurt the pitchers and they have not been able to get going in their real stride, but they'll be heard from now that the weather has warmed up. Injuries have held us down, too, but I can't imagine that we're going to be crippled all season. We have the hitting power and with improved pitching we'll be up where we belong."

ONE week from tomorrow, or on Friday, June 29, the Federal war tax on baseball tickets will be abolished. A change in the regulations does away with the tax of tickets to all sport attractions, and those of other natures, whhere the charge is

NEW STAR EQUALS OLYMPIC RECORD

Photos show start and finish of the "Race of the Century," the 100-meter dash of the Southwest Olympic trials at Los Angeles last Saturday, in which Charley Paddock, "the fastest human," was beaten by Frank Wykoff, Glendale (Cal.) high school boy. Wykoff's time, 10 3-5 seconds, equaled the Olympic record. Wykoff also defeated Paddock in the 200-meter event, in which he equaled Paddock's world record of 20 4-5 seconds.

HEARST GOLF EVENT ENTRY LIST GROWS

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

THE first annual Sun-Telegraph West Penn amateur junior golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst trophy, to be played on the Municipal links in Schenley Park on Thursday, July 12, appears to be even exceeding expectations. If the entries keep pouring in at the rate they have been during the last couple of days, the course won't be big enough to handle the tournament in a single day. Ninety—just think of it!—youngsters 18 years of age and under already have sent in their entry blanks, and the boys appear to be getting more enthusiastic over the competition as the days grow older.

Today we want to pass the 100 mark. Are we going to do it, boys? You bet!

There is no doubt but that junior golf competition is a most necessary thing inasmuch as the kiddies are taking more to the game than ever before, as witness the fact that in Waynesburg a number of boys have abandoned a baseball diamond and built thereon a three-hole golf course. The boys, while they may learn all about how to hit the ball with a driver, mashie or putter, need the sort of competition that will give them their proper temperament for the major golf they likely will encounter when they near maturity

CARD TWO DIVISIONS

Now, fellows, there are two divisions you may enter if you want to try for the beautiful prizes the Sun-Telegraph is offering for the event. But before you can enter either division, you must be an amateur, strictly, as defined by the United States Golf Association.

Boy 18 years old and under are eligible, providing they have not accepted money for caddying after their sixteenth birthday. The Junior Class will be made up of boys between 15 and 18 years of age, and the Sub-Junior Class of boys 14 years of age and under. Play will be at 18 holes, medal.

The entry list will close on Monday, July 9, so there is no time to lose in entering. Get your entry blank filled in and counter-signed and forward it to the Golf Tournament Editor. There is no charge or fee whatsoever in connection with the tournament; you must provide your own equipment, however.

One other thing. The Sun-Telegraph is eager to have the picture of every boy who enters the event; send it along now, whether you

Reds Due To Face Hill

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

WITH Clyde (Wooden-shoes) Barnhart setting a dizzy pace at bat and in the field, the Buccos today are reporting progress, if anybody should happen to ask you, "What's the matter with the Pirates?"

The second game of the series with the Reds is on for this afternoon. The battle need hold no fears for the Buccos, provided they continue to play the ball they have shown in their last two performances. Barnhart, in particular, is shining like a first light of the diamond.

Carmen Hill is slated to hurl for the Corsairs against the visitors today. Manager Hendricks will probably counter with the diminutive Jakie May, a portsider. In that

Gene Sarazen, one of the early favorites, looked badly on his start and was four over par in his first six holes.

Harry Cooper, last year's runner-up after a play-off, went out in 38, three over par, along with Willie Hunter, of Los Angeles, who had another 38.

Chick Evans came in in 39 for a 77, with a six and three fives on his card.

Frank Walsh slipped slightly, coming home, adding a 38 to his 36 going out for a 74, placing him well up among the leaders who had finished their round by noon.

HAGEN TRAILS

Hagen finished the first nine steadily for a 38, trailing his partner, Maurice McCarthy, the Brooklyn amateur, by three strokes, McCarthy shooting par 35.

Joe Kirkwood, the former Australian trick shot artist, who led the field of qualifiers in the Chicago district, found loads of difficulties going out and shot a 44. His card had two sixes and a seven on it.

TWENTY baseball teams, enrolled from all sections of Allegheny county, will begin play next Saturday to determine the championship of the district, the winner of which will represent Allegheny county in the American Legion junior baseball tournament, now in progress throughout the country.

Ben H. Giffen, chairman of the athletic committee of the Allegheny County American Legion, last night conducted the draw for the first-round eliminations and informed all of the contenders of the rules that govern the competition.

Originally it was intended to play all first-round games on Saturday, but, due to the fact that two teams were unable to obtain fields for that day, one game will be played on Monday. However, all first-round games must be completed by Tuesday, at which time the drawing for the second round will be made. The first-round schedule follows:

Pals Club at Chrysler Juniors, Lovett Field, Christy Park.

Wilmerding Cubs at Port Vue Pirates, Romine Field, Port Vue.

CHAMPION, OPPONENT SET FOR FIGHT

CHICAGO, June 21.—(Ap.)—The world's middleweight championship goes on the block at Comiskey Park tonight when Mickey Walker answers the challenge of Nebraska's wildcat of the ring, Ace Hudkins.

If weather conditions are favorable, the fight, which is billed to go 10 rounds to a decision, is expected to attract from 30,000 to 40,000 fans and probably the largest gate receipts in the history of the middleweight division.

It will be Hudkins' first shot at a boxing title in the eight years of his boxing career in three divisions, and, while Walker was a 7 to 5 betting favorite, the challenger was radiant with confidence. Walker, too, was confident, in top form and impatient for the bell.

CHICAGO, June 21.—(AP.)—Playing in a drizzling rain, the Glasgow Rangers defeated the Illinois All-Stars, 4 to 1, at soccer on Soldier Field yesterday.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

LEND an ear whilst we chant the praises of Pete Bowen, Pitt sprinter, who has been burning up the cinderpaths of Western Pennsylvania this spring, unfortunately while ineligible for the Panther squad because of scholastic deficiencies caused by illness. Diphtheria kept the Erie star from his studies for a month and a half and he failed to pass the final exams that would have enabled him to remain eligible. Because of his status he has been running under the colors of the P. A. A., and he will represent that organization at Cincinnati Saturday, when he will run in the 400-meter event of the district Olympic trials.

Pete is a real Olympic prospect. Last Saturday he broke the A. M. A. records for 100 and 440 yards at Schenley Oval, stepping the century in 9 4-5 seconds in both his trial heat and final and brushing aside Frank Shea's long-standing mark in the quarter-mile event by turning in a record of 47 4-5 seconds. At Cincinnati he will confine his efforts to the 400 meters, corresponding to the 440-yard dash, and should experience little difficulty qualifying for the National finals at Cambridge, Mass., where he will vie with the best in the land for a berth on Coach Lawson Robertson's American squad. If he makes the finals, he may try his speed against the 200-meter field there as well as against the 400-meter runners.

PETE was only a sophomore at Pitt this year and still is eligible to represent the Blue and Gold on the cinderpath for two seasons. He has made up his conditions and will be set for next year. He is one of the most versatile athletes in the university, starring in swimming and football, as well as in track. He subbed at halfback for Gibby Welch and Whitey Hagen in five of the grid battles last fall. In swimming, he has been an ace. He holds the university record for the 200 yards breaststroke and the A. M. A. record for 100 yards, and also is the Canadian 100-yard breaststroke champion, having won this title in 1925. He also holds the breaststroke records for the pools of Army at West Point and Lafayette College.

Bowen, a tall, rangy youth, likely will pass up football next fall to concentrate more on his two specialties, track and swimming. He had only one year of high school football experience before coming to Pitt.

THE Pittsburgh district has a young heavyweight who in physical appearance is not unlike the Gene Tunney of a few years ago. He is Dick Gibbons, of Duquesne, who is only 19 years old. I saw him fight Ray Fay at McKeesport the other night and was impressed with his prospects. He is tall, a fair boxer and a good hitter with his right hand. He has his faults, most of them due to inexperience, but I think he can be developed into a corking fighter with the proper handling. He appeared a bit too lacking in aggressiveness against Fay, but when he did open up after being stung he frequently rushed Fay to the ropes and scored heavily. If he is carefully nursed along for a year or two—great heavyweights are not made overnight—he should be heard from. His extreme youth is a great point in his favor.

I LIKE Mickey Walker to beat Ace Hudkins in their shindy at the White Sox Park, Chicago, tonight. Hudkins should be a formidable enough opponent, but Walker's superior boxing skill, hard body attack and advantages in weight and experience ought to prove too much for the so-called Wildcat.

Jimmy McLarnin should win over Phil McGraw in their 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, and may even knock out the tough Detroit Greek. McGraw is the type of fighter made to order for a puncher like McLarnin, who was very much at sea against the clever boxing of Champion Sammy Mandell.

PIRATES

event, Grantham will remain on the bench.

The Pennsylvania Dutchman goes along in the even tenor of his ways. Every now and then somebody will point to Pooch's alleged bay-window with a remark relative to unrestrained eating but Pooch will tell you quietly he does not eat any more than any other athlete, and he probably is right.

Barney reserves most of his emphasis for the ball field where he allows his bats to do his broadcasting. It was Pooch who started yesterday's victory drive with a single and he robbed George Kelly of an extra-base hit with two Reds on the sacks, the capture undoubtedly saved the old ball game.

The daring and brilliance of Pie Traynor won yesterday's game for the Pirates, Pie sprinting from first to the plate on Pete Scott's single to left in the fourth inning. Glenn Wright also counted on the drive, the two runs giving the Pirates a 2 to 1 victory over the Rhinelanders.

Traynor's fine dash showed Pie at his best on the bases. The third-sacker whirled around third as Pid Purdy flung the ball to second, Pie breaking for the plate at a furious clip. He was a reminder of Frank Frisch as he went over the plate head-first ahead of the touch of Picinich.

The Reds scored their only tally of the game in the same inning, Walker and Purdy hooking up a couple of doubles to make the tally.

Grantham will get into today's game in the event of a righthand pitcher facing the Pirates, according to Manager Bush. Bush further states that George would be honored by being sent to the clean-up position of the batting order.

Barnhart is batting in the clean-up notch and will stay in fourth place until Grantham swings into action.

Rain Again Interferes

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

OFFICIALS in charge of the running off of the fortieth annual West Penn tennis championships turned to asphalt courts today when rain, which delayed the start of the competition for two days, again interrupted after one day of jousting had been disposed of.

Third-round men's singles matches are being played this afternoon on Duquesne University's two asphalt courts and upon David I. McCahill's private asphalt court in Bartlett street. Duquesne volunteered the tourney chiefs the use of its courts and McCahill is a member of the tournament committee.

No men's doubles matches were attempted today, and the women's singles inaugurals were carried over until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Yesterday's summary:

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

not higher than $3. Where tickets are sold for a higher price than $3 the tax must still be paid.

But as all baseball tickets, except at the world series, are under $3, the war tax will be abolished, and each club will have its own decision to make as to how it will be best to proceed—whether to keep the tickets at their present prices or reduce the prices and give the patrons the benefit of the abolishd war tax.

Officials of the Pittsburgh club say that no plan has yet been worked out. The Pirates will not play at home under the new regulation until July 3.

THE Brooklyn club has decided to raise its prices beginning Friday, in spite of the fact that the government no longer will exact war tax. Box seats, now selling for $1.65 apiece, tax included, will be boosted to $2; reserved grandstand seats, now priced at $1.35, will cost $1.50. Tickets in the unreserved part of the grandstand, which now cost $1.10, will be reduced to $[illegible].

Mickey Walker.

DESPITE all the praise of Ace Hudkins and his ability and form that is coming from Billy Papke and others, it looks from this distance as if Mickey Walker will retain the middleweight championship without serious trouble in the 10-round title bout at Chicago tonight. Hudkins is the younger by five years, it must be admitted that Walker is by no means the fighter that he used to be, still Mickey looks to have retained enough of his old stuff, with his straight body punch and effective defense, to win over the challenger by a comfortable margin.

Phil Goldstein's bout with Georgie Balduc at Newark, N. J., Tuesday night was postponed and will be staged tomorrow night. Advertising Is a Billion Dollar Business Now

By B. C. FORBES

DETROIT, Mich., June 20.

"PROVE all things. Hold fast that which is good," counsels the Book of Wisdom. The most progressive automobile companies now have proving grounds equipped with ingenious contrivances to test every part and every performance of their own cars and the cars produced by others. Having proved all features of all cars they hold fast to that which is good. Detroit has just organized another kind of proving ground, a merchandising proving ground.

MOTOR people are constantly telling dealers how they should run their business. They tell them how to advertise, how to display their models, how to keep their accounts, how to coach their salesmen and a hundred and one other things.

But how do these motor people back at the headquarters know for certain that all their advice is sound, that it will pan out satisfactory, profitably.

The most effective way to find out how medicine works is to take some of it—so a leading advertising agency handling very important motor manufacturing accounts hit upon the sensible scientific idea of acquiring a dealership for one of the makes of cars it handles—today the world's fastest selling car—and running it strictly in accordance with the counsel officially offered all dealers.

THIS will interest business in many lines:

The very first month this business, this practical laboratory was operated it showed a very slight profit, but not an acceptable return on the amount invested. The second month's profits represented generous return on the investment. The profits in the third month, just ended, were equal to 200 per cent a year.

THAT suggests, does it not, that the advice offered dealers by this company is full of horse-sense and not more airy theories?

It perhaps explains why this company's product, the Chevrolet, now outsells any other car—the output this year is expected to reach the million mark by September, a total not approached by any other make.

THIS proving ground this laboratory having been found not only profitable financially but, far more important, rich in suggestion, the same enterprising advertising agency, Campbell Ewald, is about to take another novel step I wormed out of Henry Ewald today.

"We are arranging," said Mr. Ewald, "to extend our fact finding facilities by the taking over of several oil stations. By this direct testing method we hope to find out many useful things—for example whether the average motorist asks for a specific brand or simply says give me a couple of quarts of oil. We will learn from Mr. Motorist at first hand why he prefers one brand of gasoline. We will get his comments on tires when he comes in for air.

"It is not our intention, of course, to go into the car selling or the gas and oil selling business on a large scale, but merely to conduct laboratories, the fruits of which we can pass on to our manufacturer client for the improvement of the product and better service to the customer."

DETROIT is about to do something else new and different in the field of advertising. Next month it is staging the first "world's fair of advertising" in connection with the twenty-fourth convention of the International Advertising Association from July 8 to July 12. Here in the city's $7,500,000 Masonic Temple will be displayed methods, appliances and media of advertising—everything the advertiser and the advertising man may want to see and know. An attendance of 75,000 is predicted.

Perhaps you do not know that advertising is now numbered among America's billion dollar businesses. In fact advertising—including publications supported by advertising, printing, engraving, posters, electric signs, letter campaigns, street car cards, and many other including newer forms such as radio, has taken its place up near the head of the parade in American businesses.

HERBERT HOOVER it is hoped will attend and address the nation over the radio hookup which has been planned.

The International Advertising Association's new slogan should appeal strongly to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, "More Efficient Advertising."

The more efficient advertising can be made the better off you and I will be since it will enable us to buy more of the best for the least money.

MARKET RIDES LOWER ON SEE-SAW

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP.)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment characterized today's stock market, with the general price tendency lower. Stocks rallied 1 to 4 points at the opening, lost their gains and in many cases recorded substantial recessions in a mid-day reaction and then started upward again in the early afternoon. Plenty of stock was for sale on the rallies.

Stiff money rates provided the chief resistance to the resumption of the upward movement of prices. Call money renewed at 6½ per cent and a firmer undertone was apparent for other accommodations as banks called loans and strengthened their reserves in preparation for bank calls and mid-year settlements. Hope was held out in some brokerage quarters for an easing of rates next month when the dividend and interest payments are disbursed, but in banking circles the opinion was expressed that lower rates, if they come, are likely to be temporary.

Trading in today's market was on an extremely small scale compared with recent sessions, total sales in the first three hours falling below 1,000,000 shares.

Renewed selling of the railroad equipment shares, based on poor current business and unfavorable dividend rumors, sent American Locomotive, American Car and Foundry and Lima Locomotive to their lowest prices in years, the losses running as high as 7 points. A brisk recovery took place on the publication of a statement by President Woodin of the American Locomotive Company that no reduction in dividend was contemplated.

American Linseed common and preferred, Rossia Insurance, Radio and Wright Aeronautical broke 4 to 6 points, but rebounded sharply on short-covering. Nearly a score others were carried down 2 to 4 points in the morning reaction.

On the other hand, Pittsburgh and West Virginia was bid up 7 points above last night's closing quotation, Mullins Manufacturing 4½ and U. S. Leather common and the "A" stock, Sears Roebuck, City Stores B and International Business Machines sold 2 to 3 points higher.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, June 21.—Finding of black rust in wheatfields near Mitchell, S. D., led to a moderate early upturn in wheat values today. Ideal harvest weather, though, and absence of further crop damage reports southwest tended to check buying. Opening unchanged to 1c higher, wheat prices scored a general advance, but afterward reacted. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting ⅛c off to ⅛c up and subsequently showing a sag all around.

News of the presence of black rust in South Dakota wheat came today from an experienced crop authority. He wired from Mitchell, S. D., that he had discovered light spores of black rust on the lower sheath leaves of Marquis spring wheat in three fields. He added that the rust would not get into its damaging stage until about the middle of July, and much would depend on weather conditions at that time as to whether the damage would be serious or not.

Wheat acreage in the vicinity of the rust-infection area is reported to be small. The wheat in that district, however, is described as being of much better stand and height of stem than further north, and is consequently more susceptible to rust than is the wheat of thin stand and short straw that is seen throughout perhaps the larger part of South Dakota and much of North Dakota.

Realizing, attracted by the early advance, was in considerable volume, but buying on nervousness over the crop outlook continued, and offerings were absorbed on reactions of 12 to 15 points. Trading became less active at the decline. The market was steady at midday, active months showing net advances of 10 to 14 points.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 21.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 6 to 9 points on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement, which appeared to receive additional impetus from relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports of showers in the South.

All months made new high ground for the present movement, selling about 20 to 26 points above yesterday's closing quotations. October advanced to 21.39c, a recovery of about 1¼ cents a pound from the recent low level. Considerable realizing was encountered, but was absorbed on reactions of 9 to 10 points during the first hour. Private cables reported general buying and covering on unfavorable American crop news in the Liverpool market and scarcity of contracts. Cloth sales in Manchester were reported smaller, but yarns steady with a fair demand.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP.)—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today at 4.33c delivered, with no sales reported.

The raw sugar futures market opened unchanged to 2 points lower under liquidation of July and selling by commission houses, but offerings were absorbed by shorts and leading trade interests. Rallies left prices at midday net 1 to 3 points higher. The early decline was influenced by the easier cables and the continued inactivity in the spot market and the upturn was due more to a stronger technical condition than any change in the raw or refined market. Private cables from Cuba said that the export committee there would not sell sugar tomorrow, as was originally intended, and that in the future there would be no announcement of sales, but that bids would be received any time and sales made if prices were acceptable. Other private advices intimated that there would be no restrictions in the coming crop.

The refined market was unchanged at 6.05@6.10c for fine granulated. Withdrawals on old contracts were again of fair proportions, and the impression in the trade is that old business has been pretty well cleaned up and that a new buying movement is probable in the near future.

Cadillac-La Salle Sales.

Sales of Cadillac and La Salle cars for five months of 1928 totaled 17,437 units, an increase of 39 per cent over the same period last year, Lawrence P. Fisher, president of Cadillas Motor Car Company, reports. Deliveries for the same period show an increase of 38 per cent. Export business gained more than 72 per cent, totaling 1,337 units. Mr. Fisher said that in a single year the La Salle had become a 50 per cent factor in the company's volume of business.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Ignores Unsettling News.

The stock market was in fairly even balance today despite the fact that news of rather unfavorable nature reached the Street from various sources. News from abroad noted heavy liquidation of securities taking place in London for account of Brussels, the selling tending to weaken all continental market. Weakness at Paris was attributed to disappointment over the stabilization of the franc at 4 cents, a figure regarded by many observers as too low and practically a declaration of an 80 per cent insolvency by the French nation. However, some of the ablest financiers of France have worked out the plan and are expecting great benefits from the return to the gold standard. Francs have been quoted a little under the 4-cent level in New York this week, but the general opinion is that 4 cents will hold firm after Saturday, the day upon which the formal action is scheduled to take place. Secretary Mellon was quoted in Washington dispatches as expressing the opinion that there will be very little change in the franc after the country returns to the gold basis.

Fishers After Atlantic.

Wall Street heard today that an offer of $130 a share by the Fisher Brothers of Detroit for the holdings of Rockefeller interests in Atlantic Refining Company, one of the Standard Oil group, has been declined, but negotiations are still pending for the sale of the stock. The Rockefellers are believed to own $10,000,000 of the $50,000,000 outstanding common stock. Atlantic Refining shares have risen nearly 5 points on the Stock Exchange since Friday, closing yesterday at 131¼. The offer of the Fisher Brothers, it was said, was to bring about an alliance between Atlantic Refining and Texas Corporation, in which they have large holdings.

ALO Dividend Safe.

W. H. Woodin, president and chairman of American Locomotive Company, commenting on reports of the possibility of adverse dividend action on both American Car and Foundry and American Locomotive, stated that the dividends would be paid. American Car and Foundry common plays $6 annually and American Locomotive common $8 annually. Like American Locomotive, American Car and Foundry has been adversely affected by the small volume of business being placed by the railroads. The report for the fiscal year ended April 30 will shortly be made by American Car and Foundry and it is no secret that it will be a poor one.

Richfield Gets Pan-American West.

The Richfield Oil Company of California has purchased all of the outstanding shares of class "A" stock and a substantial block of class "B" shares of Pan-American Western Petroleum Company. The shares were bought from the Petroleum Securities Company and Edward L. Doheny. The announcement said the Petroleum Securities Company and Mr. Doheny had entered into a contract with the Richfield company, selling their entire production of crude oil for a period of 10 years at current posted market prices, together with a contract for its entire output of casing head gasoline. Plans of the Richfield company to submit in the near future a proposal for exchange of its shares for the balance of the outstanding "B" shares of Pan-American Western also were made public. The announcement said the deal would bring retirement of the Petroleum Securities Company, the Pacific Petroleum Products Company and the Doheny interests from the refining and marketing of petroleum products on the west coast. They will remain as producers of crude oil and casing head gasoline, it was said, although the deal places the output under purchase contract with the Richfield company. The companies expect to produce about 50,000 to 55,000 barrels of crude oil daily.

Output of the properties for 24 hours ended at 7 a. m. yesterday was about 12,500 barrels, which was the amount allowed under the restriction program now in force in Winkler county.

Lake Ore Consumption Higher.

Consumption of Lake Superior ore by furnaces totaled 4,947,768 tons, an increase of 166,553 tons over April of the current year, but a decrease of 65,014 from May, 1927. On June 1 ore on hand at furnaces amounted to 13,942,157 tons at Lake Erie docks 4,934,564 tons, compared with a total of 22,970,576 tons on June 1, 1927. Of 272 furnaces represented 173 were in blast the last day of May, a gain of 5 from April, according to the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association.

General Electric Profits Up.

Based on results obtained thus far, the statement for six months ending June 30 of the General Electric Company should show net income of around $24,500,000 after all charges and taxes, equal after dividends on the special stock to about $3.20 a share on 7,211,482 common shares issued. This would be a new high and compare with net of $23,830,162 or $3.13 a share last year, the best previous first six months.

Soft Coal Production Steady.

The weekly estimate of bituminous coal production in the United States, prepared by the National Coal Association, shows a total of 8,350,000 net tons for the week ended June 16. This compares with a total output of 8,412,00 net tons in the week ended June 9 and 7,382,000 net tons in the week ended June 2 as reported by the United States Bureau of Mines. Pittsburgh Coal Company reports 155,946 tons of coal mined during the week ended June 16, from the 18 former union mines now working on open-shop basis. This compares with 161,191 tons mined during preceding week.

Investment Trusts.

Much has been heard recently of the paper losses which were suffered by investment trusts on their holdings of stocks. However, in some reliable quarters it is stated that some of these trusts were quietly disposing of stocks during the latter half of May and realized prices materially above those now prevailing. Naturally this put such sellers in an excellent position financially, as substantial profits must have been taken on such sales. Thus far there has been no indication that these sellers have been inclined to repurchase stocks. Canvass of some of the larger and longer established investment trusts indicates they took no chances by overinvesting in stocks during the advance preceding the current break. In fact, most of them have been steadily liquidating part of their holdings and putting money in the banks or out on call.

Expect Loan Decrease.

Because of the substantial reactions which occurred in the market, and particularly because of the unusually heavy outside liquidation, it is the general belief in Wall Street that the report on broker's loans to be made by the Federal Reserve Bank after today's close will record a substantial decrease. Some interests are predicting that the drop will be larger than the $135,000,000 reported a week ago. This view has been responsible for some of the short covering which has come into the market in the past two days.

Postum May Get Linseed.

Inability of the principal stockholding interests in Gold Dust Corporation to agree upon terms for a merger with American Linseed Company has caused an end to the negotiations. The deal was interrupted, it is said, by the entrance of Postum Company, Inc., as a bidder against Gold Dust. The Rockefeller interests, which are dominant in American Linseed, are understood to have favored Gold Dust, but other interests objected. There is still possibility that Postum may take over control.

PGH. PLATE IN GOOD DEMAND

Stocks continued to mark time during the early trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with business showing a moderate falling off as compared with yesterday and prices showing practically no change from the quotations recorded in the late dealings of the previous session.

Carnegie Metals was supported again at 19, the figure to which it dropped in the recent selling movement inspired by the decline in the general list in New York. Not much of the Carnegie stock has come out on the movement, which fact leads some observers here to believe that holdings of the group generally credited with being informed on the company's affairs have not been liquidated.

There was no change in the Arkansas Gas issues, and Lone Star was dull again, following the session yesterday, in which the turnover of the shares was the smallest in weeks. National Fireproofing common sold early at $7 a share, within a half point of the year's low.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass was the strongest of the industrial issues, selling up to within a few points of the year's high in response to the buying which has been apparent in the stock for the past month or so. Interests favoring the buying side of Pittsburgh Plate point to its dominant position in the safety glass field, where, in association with the Duponts, it has the benefit of the latter's patents and also the outlet for production to the General Motors divisions. Demand for the safety glass is increasing rapidly, and pressure on Pittsburgh Plate has been such as to force the doubling of plant capacity at Creighton.

COKE OUTPUT SHOOTS UP

CONNELLSVILLE, June 21.—The Courier says: For the first week, except one, since the middle of April the production of coke made a gain last week, but it was only sufficient to counteract the loss of the preceding week, which means that the total is again at about the level reached at the beginning of the current year.

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, June 16, was 44,430 tons, divided between the two districts as follows: Connellsville, 9,580, a decrease of 1,600 tons; Lower Connellsville, 34,850, an increase of 5,550 tons, or a net increase of 3,950 tons, as compared with a net decrease of 3,640 tons during the preceding week.

The market remains quotable as follows:

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE

Mr. Edgar J. Kaufmann, President of Kaufmann Department Stores Securities Corporation and also of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., has furnished the following information:

BUSINESS

"Kaufmann Department Stores Securities Corporation, organized in 1925 as a Delaware corporation, owns a majority of the common stock of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc. The latter company operates the largest department store in Pittsburgh. The business, founded 57 years ago, has never had an unprofitable year.

Pittsburgh, one of the great retail markets of America, is the natural shopping center of some 2,750,000 people who live within a fifty mile radius. The store, occupying the most strategic retail location in the city, is one of the best equipped establishments of its kind in the country. The present buildings, with approximately 700,000 square feet devoted to selling space, are sufficiently large to take care of an increased volume of business.

SECURITY

The Notes are to constitute a closed issue in the aggregate principal amount of $3,000,000 and are to be secured by the pledge of 304,000 shares (out of 600,000 shares presently to be outstanding) of the common stock of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc. The Indenture will provide that a majority of the common stock of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., shall remain pledged as long as any of the Notes remain outstanding, and will contain certain provisions protective of the collateral security in case of subsequent stock dividends or distribution of assets upon the pledged stock and in case of the recapitalization, merger or consolidation of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc. Certain provisions of the Indenture may be modified with the consent of the holders of not less than 75% of the outstanding Notes.

As of December 31, 1927, the portion of the net tangible assets of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., applicable to the pledged stock amounted to $7,013,370, the equivalent of over $2,300 per Note. Based upon the price at which an offering of shares of the same issue was recently made, the stock pledged has a value in excess of $11,000,000, the equivalent of over $3,600 per Note.

SINKING FUND

Through the operation of a sinking fund the Corporation agrees to retire a minimum of $60,000 principal amount of the Notes semi-annually beginning June 15, 1929 and until December 15, 1935. In addition all the remaining income of the Corporation in excess of taxes, interest and other expenses will be used semi-annually on each of the abovementioned dates to retire Notes. However, the Corporation may purchase Notes at or below the current redemption price and surrender the same for cancellation in lieu of cash. The Board of Directors of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., will place the common stock presently to be outstanding on an annual dividend basis of $1.50 per share by the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share payable November 1, 1928. Based on that annual dividend rate on the pledged stock throughout the period of the Notes, at least 80% of the principal amount will be retired prior to maturity.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds of this issue of Notes will be used in part to redeem the $2,701,000 Ten-Year 6% Secured Gold Notes of the Corporation, due February 1, 1935, now outstanding.

INCOME

The net sales and consolidated net profits of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., and its wholly owned subsidiaries, for the four years ended December 31, 1927, after eliminating as a charge to income that portion of amortization of leaseholds in excess of the amount deductible for tax purposes (in the amount of $19,000 per annum) and after deducting (1) all other charges including ample depreciation, (2) Federal income taxes at the rate of 12% per annum, and (3) dividend requirements on the preferred stock now outstanding, and the portion of said net profits applicable to the pledged stock, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., are set forth below:

Year ended Dec. 31	Net Sales	Net Profits as defined above	Earnings applicable to pledged stock
1924	$27,400,477	$1,609,511	$815,486
1925	28,251,505	1,583,208	802,158
1926	28,992,323	1,695,688	859,148
1927	29,001,335	1,618,081	819,827

Earnings applicable to the pledged stock, as shown above, have averaged $824,154 per annum for the four years ended December 31, 1927, the equivalent of over 5.2 times the maximum annual interest requirements of $157,500 on the Notes. Based on an annual dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock of Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., presently to be outstanding, the annual income of Kaufmann Department Stores Securities Corporation will equal $456,000, or more than 2.8 times the interest requirements on the Notes."

99 and accrued interest, to yield over 5.40%

Kaufmann Department Stores Securities Corporation Ten-Year 6% Secured Gold Notes, to be called for redemption on August 1, 1928, at 102 and accrued interest (aggregating 105) will be accepted in payment for these Collateral Trust Notes on a 4½% discount basis computed on the redemption price from date of delivery to date of redemption, provided notice of the amount of such notes to be tendered in payment be received not less than five days prior to the date fixed for delivery of and payment for these Collateral Trust Notes.

These Notes are offered subject to allotment or prior sale and in all respects when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to approval of Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, for the Bankers, and of Messrs. Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay, for the Company. It is expected that delivery of temporary notes or of interim receipts will be made on or about June 29, 1928, at the office of Goldman, Sachs & Co., 30 Pine Street, New York, N. Y., against payment therefor in New York funds.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

ONE of the first signs of business improvement seen in this district recently is noticeable at the East Pittsburgh plant of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. For the first time in several months men and women are being re-employed. Reduction of shop and office forces had been going on for a large part of this year. In the past few days many of those laid off have been notified to return to work.

STEEL production, however, is still undergoing a gradual curtailment. Carnegie Steel Company has taken another blast furnace out of production. Scrap prices have declined 25 cents more a ton. In most lines of steel products, there is little strength in prices. Some steel makers are operating below 70% of capacity. Pipe and wire mills are at 60% or lower. But this should not be discouraging. Operations are greater than at this time last year.

ALTHOUGH the volume of sales in most industries in this district has been reduced, lack of orders has not been the chief complaint. Unsatisfactory prices are the greatest causes for grief. This same story is told by those dealing in steel, glass, cork, linoleum and coal. Firms not suffering from such a condition appear to be the exception. The next large increase in general business volume may correct this situation, but there are some business men who think that we have started on a long period of narrow profits which can only be met by the utmost efficiency in production and distribution.

IT is still too soon for any very noticeable improvement to have been shown in the coal trade as a result of the reduction in lake cargo coal freight rates. The coal trade finds that it is necessary to again educate lake buyers on the merits of Pittsburgh district coal. The effect of several years of unfamiliarity with our coal must be overcome. The railroads are trying to stimulate lake coal traffic. Some roads which have been buying their supply of coal stopped their purchases in an effort to compel the mine owners to sell their output at the lakes. Coal prices remain too low to yield profits from the average mine.

STEEL mills, which are operating the new types of continuous sheet mills are slowly overcoming the production difficulties which faced them when the mills were started. Little difficulty is found in the production of the heavier gages, but the rolling of the lighter sheets still offers problems. The continuous mills eliminate the large amounts of labor needed for rolling, catching and doubling necessary in the older mills. A steel ingot can be reduced to a long ribbon of steel without any handling with tongs. The mills are expected to revolutionize the sheet steel industry.

THE validity of patents covering the continuous mills is still undecided so far as some of the producers are concerned. The American Rolling Mill Company which pioneered the development has been attempting to secure a dominant position which would compel all the users of the new mills to pay it royalties. To eliminate conflicting patents it bought the Columbia Steel Company, which had developed a plant for continuous sheet making at Butler. It also made an arrangement with the United Engineering & Foundry Company, by which it obtained control of that organization's patents. Since then efforts have been made to convince other users such as Wierton Steel, Trumbull Steel, and American Sheet & Tin Plate Company of the justice of its patent rights. If the American Rolling Mill Company is successful in its efforts it will secure an enormous income from royalties.

THE City of Pittsburgh will be in a position to start an extensive improvement program soon, as a result of the sale yesterday of $6,357,000 of 4¼% bonds. The proceeds will be spent in bridges, streets, water works, sewers and parks. An interesting feature of the bond issue is that the successful bidders were the Union Trust Company and the Mellon National Bank. Although these two institutions are under control of the Mellons and their associates, it is unusual for them to make a joint bid. In the past they have nearly always been arrayed

POEM FOR YOUR ASH CAN.

When she was much too young to know
Just how to look or where to go,
This gal (of whom we're writing now)
Yearned and burned for romance. Wow!
(She eloped with the chauffeur)

As weeks went by she told herself,
"I wish I'd nabbed a man with pelf—
"This guy's alright for romance, yet
"I'd like some things that he can't get."
(Such as motors, gowns and plover eggs.)
She packed her things, and slipped away,
And found a rich man—playful, gay.
But is she happy with this sort?
This wealthy, healthy new-found sport?

(Certainly! Why Not!)

We Need Improvements And Can Afford Them Now

Allegheny county's bonding power, with consent of the voters, is $105,000,000, Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong asserted at a community meeting in Dormont, in behalf of the proposed loan of $43,680,000 which comes up for approval of citizens next Tuesday. It is the same as saying to a man intending to build a house costing less than $5,000 that his credit is good for more than double that sum.

There is another way to look at it, comparing the county to an individual. He has a nice home, but the house is not large enough for his growing family. He has a spacious lawn, but additional landscaping is necessary, with an arbor here, a trellis there and a birdhouse near the garage. His driveway was originally built on a basis of funds available and he has to back out and run onto the grass and against shrubs because he has no room to turn his car around. His family cries for more room and more comforts, and his banker friend tells him he can have money to make all the needed improvements and that he will be abundantly able to pay for them.

That is all there is to this bond issue.

We need improvements and we can afford to have them.

William H. Berry's Death Recalls Capitol Graft

Current news carries the report of the death in Chester of William H. Berry, former state treasurer of Pennsylvania. A Delaware county Democrat, whose term of office was 1906-1908, Berry was the mouthpiece of the most sensational development in the political annals of the state. It was Berry who disclosed the graft in connection with the furnishing of the Capitol in Harrisburg, a scandal of such a nature that men connected with it, formerly held in high esteem, were disgraced and imprisoned, or died.

Berry revealed the vast scheme to defraud the state as campaign material in behalf of Lewis Emery, of McKean county, coalition candidate of the Democrats and independent Republicans, in his unsuccessful candidacy for the governorship against Edwin L. Stuart, Philadelphia. In a series of campaign speeches Berry made charge after charge of corruption which shocked and stirred the state as it never had been before, but which lost much weight with the voters because they were regarded in many quarters as "mud-slinging."

Under the administration of Gov. Stuart the charges were prosecuted in the courts and revealed an extensive scheme for fraud under a plan designed to defy detection. Costs for Capitol furnishings were lost in a maze of technicality under various schedules stipulating feet, pounds, etc., as a basis of payment. Convictions followed, those guilty served their terms or died and time covered with the mantle of forgetfulness the greatest scandal our state has known, now recalled through the death of Berry.

Very Great Strength

But What of It?

FINE YOUNG MAN, AND PLEASING BURDEN.

The good-looking, powerful young person is Seward Holley, a police officer of Venice, California, weighing 260 pounds. Training for a swimming marathon, he seems to find pleasant ways of gaining strength. He holds on his powerful neck and outstretched arms five pleasing young mermaids.

This will interest boys and girls, but let them not forget that mere strength, whether you hold up FIVE girls or FIVE THOUSAND girls, isn't of the slightest importance.

A rod of steel, smaller than one of the girls' little fingers, would hold this group and many others suspended indefinitely, perhaps for 100 years, if you kept away rust.

All the muscles in this boy's well-developed legs and his outstretched arms amount to nothing in this modern world of mechanics and mechanical science. Once his muscle might have made him chief of a tribe. Now you become chief by thinking. ONE ORIGINAL IDEA IN THAT HANDSOME HEAD might work wonders.

Thomas A. Edison couldn't do this, but he could do something else, and he DID.

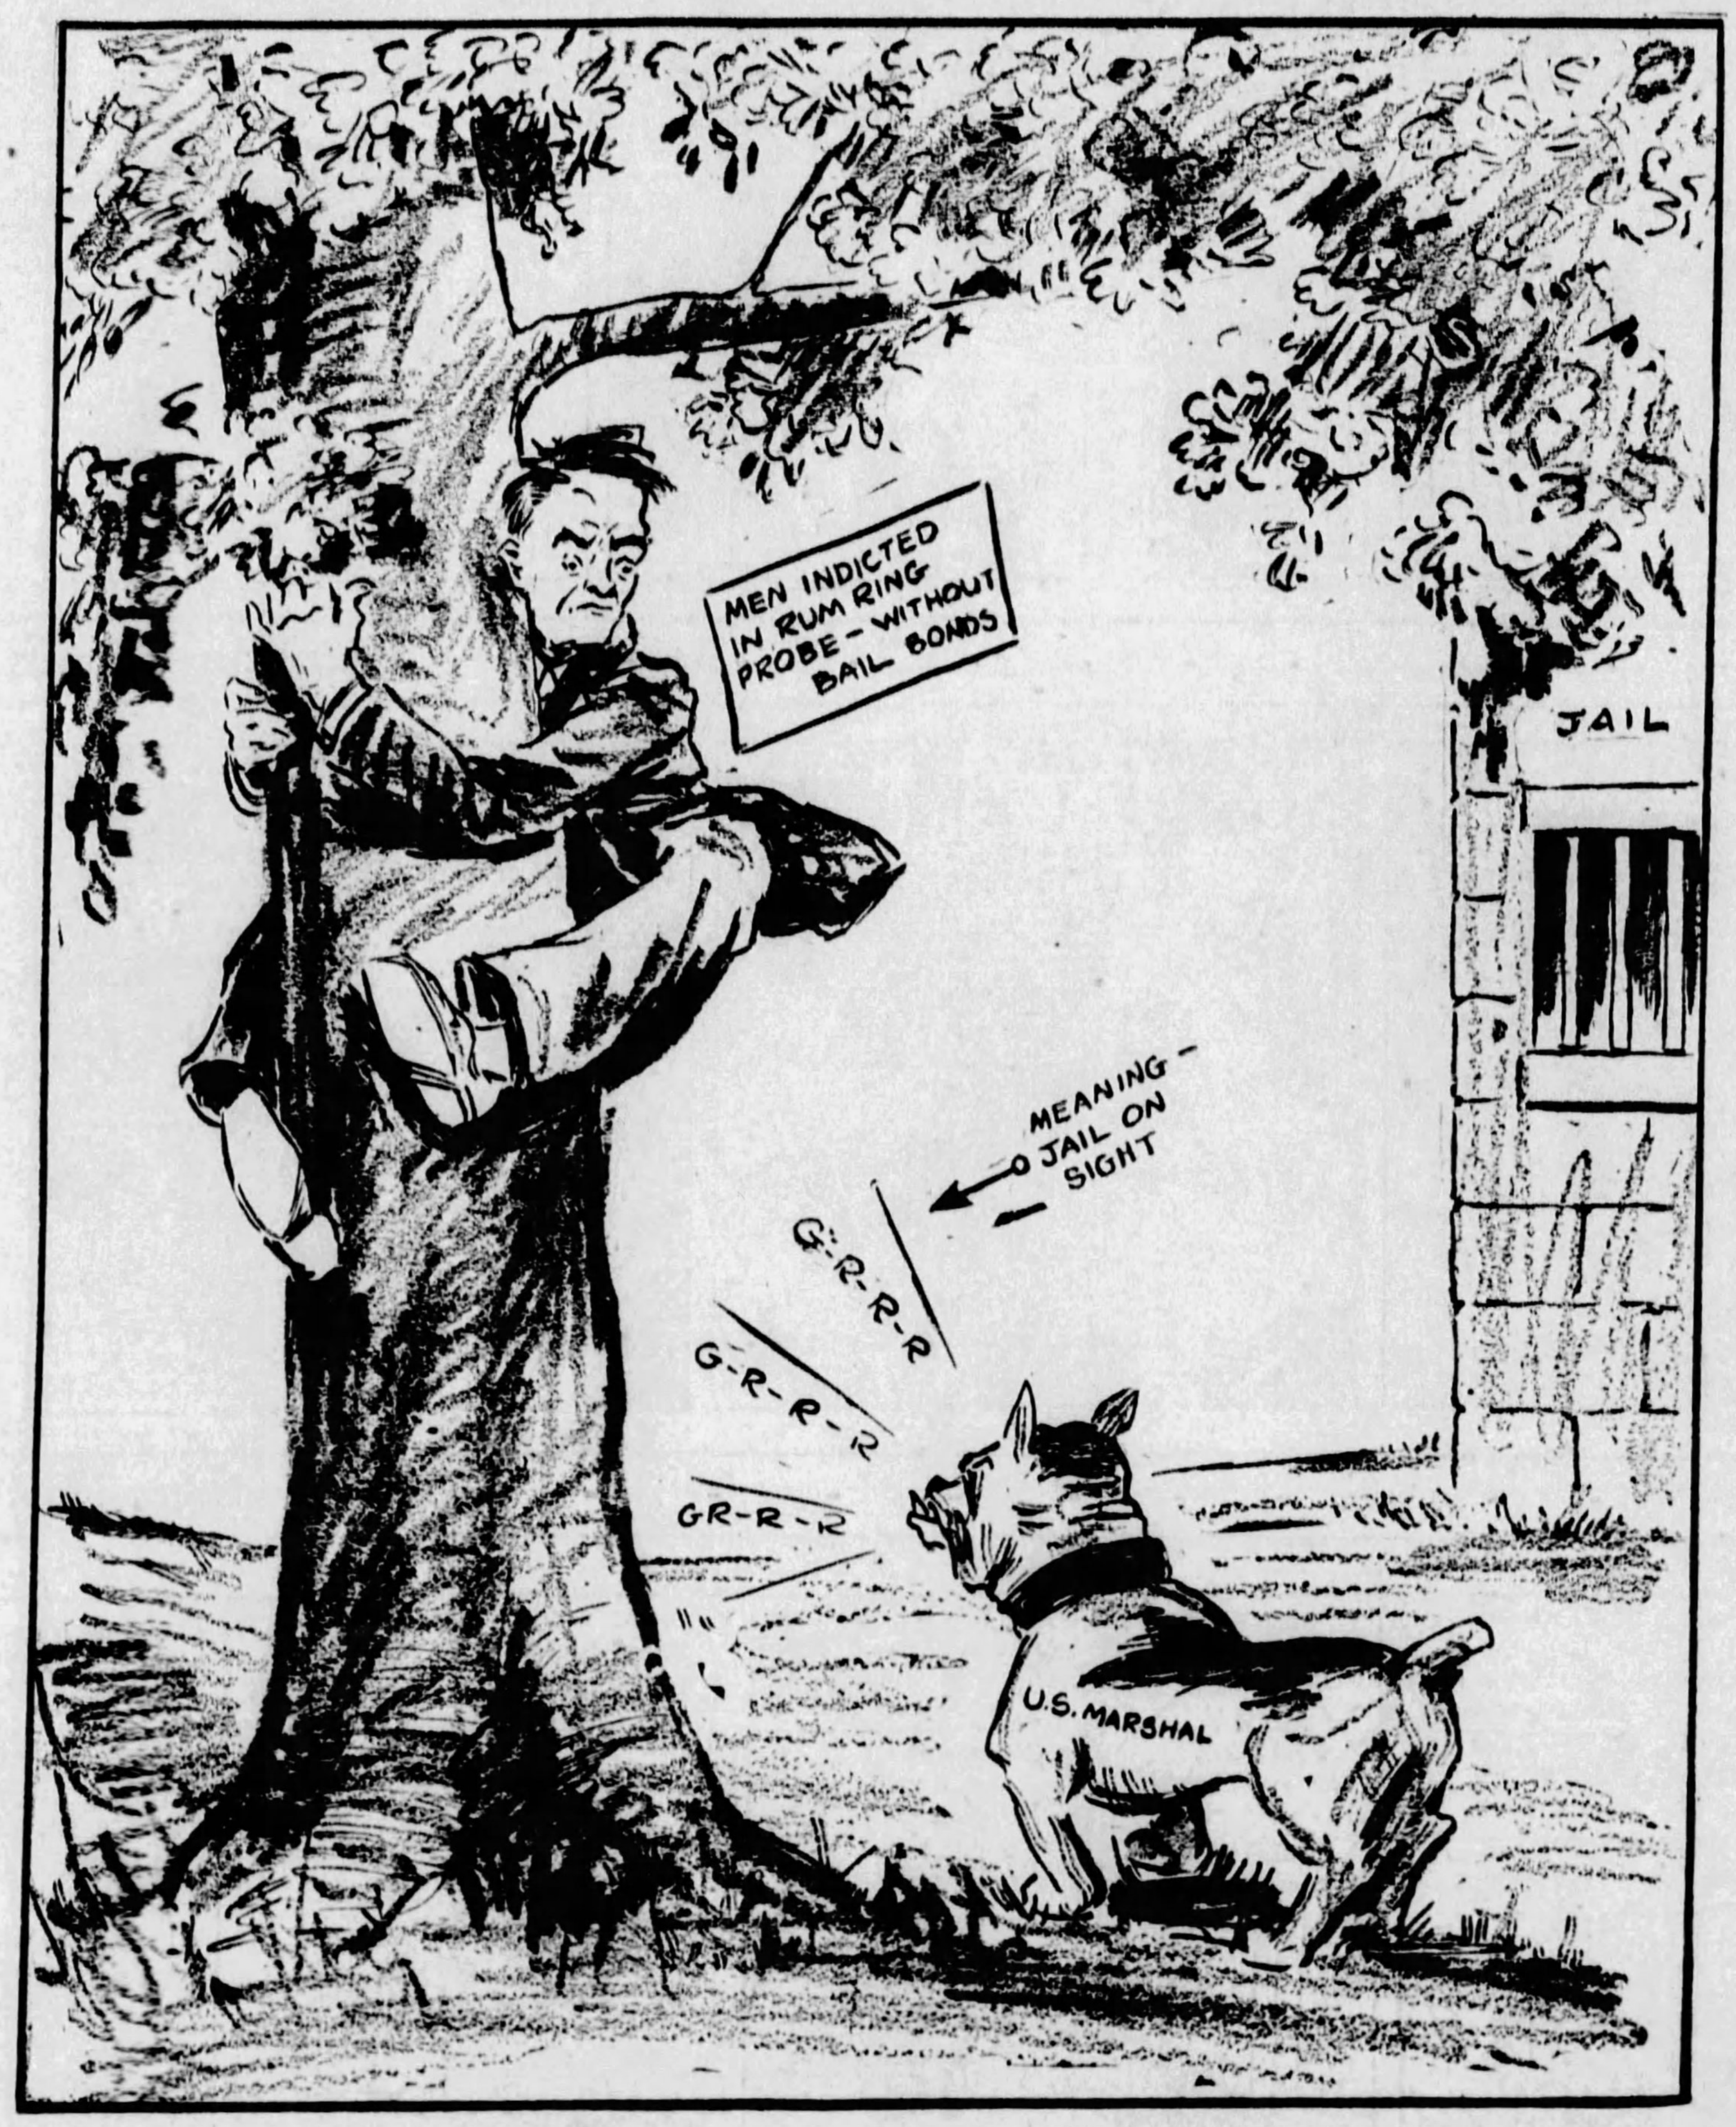
Marconi on his outstretched arms probably couldn't do more than hold up a couple of babies. But he invented wireless.

This young man, doubtless, will take a highly intellectual turn later, and we wish him success in that equal to his success in feats of strength.

Perhaps he will even develop an idea that will convince young ladies that in the great cosmic long run ideas are even more important than legs.

Samson, that Bible hero, was much more powerful than Policeman Holley, of Venice, California. With his thumb he could have crushed his false friend, Miss Delilah. But, while Samson used his muscles and allowed sentiment to carry him away, Delilah used her BRAINS. You remember what happened to Samson.

A RATHER AWKWARD POSITION



New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 21.—The strange attraction shadowy creatures of the underworld as well as unsophisticated ladies is not altogether the imaginings of novelists and playwrights seeking to raise goose pimples. Broadway knows of many such liaisons.

Investigation of the murder of a beautiful blond found garroted in her sumptuous apartment a few years ago brought about the discovery she was the habitual consort of criminals. Money received from devoted admirers of the upper world was generously distributed to a lover in the lower.

Chiefly this odd enticement exists amid the transient gaiety of the Broadway bohemian demi-monde, but not altogether. Around last Christmas time the father of an alluring debutante received this unsigned message: "Your daughter is visiting night clubs with a crook."

He immediately investigated, found it true and the girl is now under strict surveillance in a small resort town in Europe. Three girls not of society but from select homes and of respectable parentage have had marriages to libertines annuled in the last several years.

The appearance of a girl of uncommon loveliness escorted to a night club by some scar-faced gorilla in an ill-fitting dinner suit is an ordinary occurrence. It no longer causes surprise. Out of these associations have come many unsolvable crimes, both passional and monetary.

The Dot King and Elwell murder mysteries as well as several others that rocked the town had an underworld and night club background. Three wives of rich and respectable husbands, beaten and stripped of their jewels, were found to be romancing with gigolos.

This is the new and dangerous night life that has sprung up with the unsavory speakeasy. Girls from respectable families, woozy with gin, visit these joints and rub elbows with sinister figures of a world they never knew. Many are thrilled and it is inevitable a few must pay the price.

Expert flim-flammers rarely single out rich men for victims save in cases of blackmail. They find pay-dirt among those who, harassed by debt, are seeking a way out. The man on a big salary but heavily in debt is an immediate candidate for the "works." He will take a chance. The rich are cautious. That's why they're rich. Head waiters know that it is the rich man who invariably adds up his meal check carefully and tips fairly but moderately. He never patronizes gyp theatrical ticket agencies and is always ready to dispute an overcharge, no matter how small. He suffers from no common fear of being thought cheap, as do the rest of us lowly prunes.

It is odd commentary on human reasoning that the average man will suffer himself to be gyped of a trifling sum rather than appear cheap in the eyes of a crook. Ordinary mortals shrink from the sneer of a hat checker, but the rich man doesn't. He is too busy with other thoughts.

* * *

The most unusual hotel story of the week concerns a man who awakened in the night and found a hornet buzzing over his head. He turned on the lights and, armed with a newspaper, gave battle, but was not victorious until the hornet sat down under his right eye. He appeared for breakfast with a tightly closed optic and took the next train for back yonder. Somehow it is difficult to think of fighting hornets in New York.

* * *

I just asked a hotel floor waiter, who was born and reared in New York, if he had even seen a hornet. "Yes, sir," he replied. "I heard a fellow play one at the Hippodrome." He probably was referring to a chandelier.

* * *

There is a certain snippy type of New Yorkers whose autocratic manner is extended even to a stranger. Hurrying out of my hotel this evening, one planted himself in front of me and brusquely snapped: "Where is Sherry's?" I gave him an Arctic glance and passed on. Of course I knew where it is. I wish I had as much money as I knew where Sherry's is.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Astronomy's Figures

A CORRESPONDENT in Fond du Lac, Wis., says that although "astronomy has been called an exact science I have been unable thus far to discover any textbook that so treats it." He then refers to the different texts for the distances of the planets from the sun. He also complains of other variations of statements, and concludes that the "so-called laws" are only "guesswork."

I have often noticed that people seem to think that science should be able to measure things with ABSOLUTE ACCURACY and if statements are made in round numbers or approximations are used which vary, either for reasons of convenience or because there is a choice to be made between slightly differing results, such variations are set down as evidence that scientific knowledge is more or less of a pretext anyhow. Many persons also neglect to note that science is above all progressive, and that many of its facts are only accepted as approximations for the time being, the very object of scientific study being to test, verify and perfect its knowledge.

Consequently, unless the latest publications are consulted on certain points, the reader may find himself devouring the contents of the scientific waste-basket. In some branches the progress is so rapid and the changes of view so frequent that no one except specialists directly concerned can keep abreast of it.

Take this question of the distance of the planets from the sun, which the correspondent mentions. Some of us can remember when the earth's distance from the sun was set down in all astronomical textbooks as 95,000,000 miles. I sometimes receive letters from people who, having found that distance given in Herschel's popular (and still in many respects authoritative and very excellent) "Outlines of Astronomy," suppose it to be the figure now accepted by astronomers. But, in fact, as long ago as 1874 the sun's distance was authoritatively put at only 91,500,000 miles. At present it is set at 92,870,000 miles, plus or minus a possible error of about 10,000 miles.

Mark those last italicized words. They show that there is no pretense of absolute accuracy in the figures given, although a high authority (Russell-Dugan-Stewart's "Astronomy") considers that there is no likelihood that they will have to be changed again. In other words, science has probably got as close to absolute truth in this matter as human limitations permit.

It may be interesting to show how the calculation is made. In the first place the parallax of the sun must be obtained by measurement. There are several ways of doing this, which I shall not here describe. Suffice to say that the parallax is the angle at the sun subtended by the radius of the earth, and that it is a very small angle. One of the best measurements makes it 8.802 seconds of arc. Now by the principles of angular measurement in terms of the radian the number 206,265 (the seconds in a radian) multiplied by the equatorial radius of the earth (7963.34 miles), and the product divided by the parallax, will give the sun's distance in miles. Taking these figures and performing the multiplication and division you will find that the distance comes out 92,876,428 miles. Vary the estimate of the parallax and the distance will vary proportionally. The smaller the parallax the greater the distance.

This is only an example to show how the uncertainties that give rise to varying statements of astronomical figures originate. The principles are sound and their application would give absolutely accurate and unchangeable figures only if human senses and human instruments were also absolutely perfect and invariable. By remembering that they are not we may save ourselves from some vain boasting.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Is Your Mind Story-Stored?

YOU find it easy to remember a certain kind of story, but difficult to retain important facts.

Sometimes you have wondered at this.

Now isn't it because you have trained yourself to remember stories and in so doing you have neglected the more important accomplishment?

You like to memorize stories because you like to tell them.

More than likely you have devoted so much effort to this that you have dissipated your ability to make your mind serviceable in other ways.

We usually give most attention to the thing that most interests us.

Easy to get the mind to work in channels we like.

For this reason we should force ourselves to do things not so easy.

You don't want to be one-sided—abnormally accomplished in one direction and lacking in another, do you?

Doesn't sound good, does it?

Your story-telling reputation won't get you anywhere.

It is more likely to lower you in the estimation of men who realize that life is full of more important things.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Duty

THEY told me she was stern and cold,
A beldame grim and gaunt;
That all who trod her way grew old,
Grew pinched with fear and want.
They said that Duty's grasp would rend
A joyous heart, past power to mend.

Yet, though they warned me well, I sought
This Duty out, and found
That in her name great deeds are wrought
And miracles abound.
They lied who called her grim and gray,
She is as lovely as the day!

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

A WOMAN was telling the judge the old, old story.

"My husband deserted me," she says, "and that's the only reason why I want a divorce. I want to get a new husband that won't run out on me."

"Well," says the judge, "did you treat your husband right? What made him run?"

"Judge," she says, "I treated that man more than nice, and I don't have an idea why he lammed. He didn't appreciate me. I tried to make him feel comfortable. I even tried to keep him from being lonesome."

"How do you mean, lonesome?"

"Well, that ain't hard. With just me he seemed to be kinda uneasy. So I got my mother to come and live with us, but that didn't do no good. He stayed away from home every once in a while. So then I got my dad and two sisters to stay with us, and still he kept getting worse about staying away from home. Well, Judge, I even got three girl cousins to live with us, and we all tried to keep him from being low in his mind, but he beat it right when we were planning to have a family reunion to make him happy."

Much Too Busy

THE railway surveyor knocked at the farmer's house, and when the farmer appeared informed him that the company wanted to run a line through part of his ground.

"But what about that big barn o' mine?" protested the farmer. "Do you want to come through there?"

"Yes, 'fraid so," said the other tersely.

The farmer could also be terse when he liked.

"Well, I tell ye, ye can't, see," he snapped back. "D'ye think I've got nothing else to do but open an' shut the doors every time a train wants to come through?"

A Sure Indication

YOUNG CYRIL had been asked out to tea, and during the conversation he remarked that he was afraid it would be his last visit, because he thought they were going to move.

"But what makes you so sure your mother is going to move, Cyril?" asked his hostess. "She hasn't mentioned the matter to me."

"Ah," returned Cyril, "but, you see, I scratched the banister several times yesterday and mamma never said anything."

Treatment

TWO friends who had not met for a long time sat in a restaurant talking.

"How is old Snaggs, the company promoter, getting on?" inquired one.

"Oh, he's not been feeling very well lately," was the reply. "He has to keep to a very strict diet—just a little of certain special food."

"What's wrong with him?" queried the other. "Indigestion? Insomnia?"

"No. In prison."

His Pleasure

THE meek and scholarly old gentleman had wandered into a downtown store, to find himself surrounded by a bevy of well-dressed shopwalkers.

"What is your pleasure, sir?" they asked in unison, with beatific smiles.

The old gentleman was rather embarrassed.

"Er—er—well, my pleasure is fishing," he replied hesitatingly, "but I—er—rather wanted a new hat."

Her Husband's Maid

A CURIOUS arrangement to avoid a divorce suit has been approved by a Chicago judge. A wife becomes her husband's housekeeper rather than sue for a separation.

"I want to stay in the home I love and with the children I have raised," she told the court. "But that will be impossible if my husband feels he has a right to be cruel to me."

There is something in this that points to the bitter truth at the bottom of an old, old vaudeville joke. One comedian asks another: "Who was that lady I saw you with last evening?" And the reply is: "That was no lady; that was my wife."

Marriage and the Mourners' Bench

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A judge out in California recently decided that he would not annul a marriage because the man claimed the wife had not been virtuous before they were married.

He seemed to go on the assumption that marriage was like the Mourners' Bench—it wiped the slate clean. He went on the further assumption that the rule of caveat emptor, "Let the buyer beware," belongs also to the marriage contract as well as to other contracts.

If a man is so particular about his wife being virtuous he ought to take pains to inform himself before he ties up with her.

A minister was once approached by a woman who asked him if she should confess to her husband her wrong doings before she was married. He answered her, "No. Confess to God. That is what God is for. If you can find a husband who is like God you might confess to him, but most of them are not. It would be pretty risky."

Married people would do well to close the door upon the past when they get married. If a person is faithful after he is married, that is enough. That is all he swears to do.

The court was right in this instance because courts are interested in preserving the inviolability of the marriage contract. It is not only a contract, but a status. The court is not particularly concerned about the moral character of the couple nor about their fidelity except after they are married.

Marriage is indeed like the Mourners' Bench. Both of them ought to wipe out the sins committed before marriage and start people off with a clean slate.

There should be no DOUBLE STANDARD. What is sauce for the gander ought to be sauce for the goose.

If a woman maintains her virtue and her loyalty after her marriage vows that should be sufficient to satisfy any man.

It does not pay us to inquire too particularly into the past. What is past is past and the sins committed before and bitterly repented of may be but an added reason for our rectitude in the future.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

STANLEY PRICE, an electrical engineer from Chicago, ran down a Follies girl with his car and is now going to marry her. Sylvia Carol, the bride-elect, says that while many folks continue to get lawyers in settling accident cases, she highly recommends a minister instead.

Like all Americans, she favors the happy ending.

A little old lady of 90, crashed the gate at the Republican convention. It sounded like a feat, but there was a big, handsome cop on the door (or several of them), and she stole up to him and whispered: "I want to go in. My name is Mrs. O'Connell."

Done!

A good friend of theirs bet Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fowlie, of Harmony, Me., that they could not remain handcuffed the first week of their honeymoon. He bet them a nice dining room set.

If you have to be handcuffed anyway to get a dining room set, might as well try to steal one.

What a friend!

Dr. John B. Watson, famous behaviorist, says that petting is good for young folks, and prepares them for their "love life." "Let them pet," sezze, "petting is all right."

Don't they know it!

A he-gossip in Camden, N. J., told the whole town that he saw a young lady in her parlor, kissing a strange man. (Not so strange.)

In court the he-gossip said that he wasn't just exactly sure she was kissing him, but the shadows looked as if she were.

The court called him "an old woman," and gave him three months in jail.

He ought to be a better judge when he gets out. Shadows are what a jail has nothing much else of but.

Mrs. Emma Stewart, matron for 23 years at the Chicago Y. M. C. A., says she has made about 300,000 beds. But, unfortunately, there is no niche in the hall of fame for a pillow-slip artist.
